Petition Opposes Landmark Ordinance; Seminary Has 'Serious Reservations'

A man whose house once belonged to Woodrow Wilson has launched a petition campaign against the Borough's proposed Landmarks Ordinance and says he obtained 25 signatures from 30 people in a single afternoon.

Meanwhile, as a result of Monday night's gathering in John Witherspoon School sponsored by the Historical Society of Princeton and the Chamber of Commerce, still another meeting on the ordinance has been planned.

This one is the regular monthly meeting of the Historic Sites Committee (not to be confused with the Historical Society of Princeton). It will be held next Wednesday, May 10, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall and is open to the public.

"We hope there will be more give - and - take at this meeting, with key groups present to talk it over across the table," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley on Tuesday.

"Monday night's meeting was too formal, without enough chance for discussion and questions," the mayor observed. "There's a lot of mis-information around town about what's in the ordinance."

Sherwood Ross lives in the house at 82 Library Place. So did Woodrow Wilson. The house was shown in a slide presentation on Monday night as a possible "landmark."

"The Wilsons themselves changed that house," Mr. Ross says. "People along Library Place, Hodge Road and other streets are very concerned about maintaining their homes, irrespective of whether the homes are landmarks, but they don't want another government agency telling them what changes they can make."

Mayor Cawley says he thinks someone in favor of the landmarks ordinance could probably get just as many signatures as Mr. Ross has.

At Monday night's meeting, Lewis B. Cuyler, president of the Historical Society, said the meeting wasn't "a rally" for either pros or cons, but was intended to be "strictly an informational meeting."

Mayor Cawley says Council introduced the ordinance "for the public benefit in preserving landmarks."

"Like any serious ordinance, it may cause some individual pain, to achieve the public good," the mayor says.

He added that he's not very happy with some compromises that have been proposed, like allowing a home - owner to veto designation of the property as a landmark.

"But eight speakers addressed the group, and all eight were in favor," Mr. Ross says.

"The Historical Society - and I'm a member - painted a facade of objectivity while they're privately planning to tell homeowners how to manage their property."

He charged that pro - landmark people have "deliberately avoided making a survey of residents in landmark houses to determine if they plan any demolition or major remodeling. The reason is that absence of these conditions would undercut the alleged need for the law."

Plans Take Shape for 5-Story Garage But Public Library Voices Opposition

"We're on a fast track with the parking garage and we want to stay there, with ground - breaking this October," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week, following Thursday's marathon of three sessions with garage designer John Fujiwara.

Thursday's public meeting, the first of several to be announced as planning goes along, followed a meeting of Mr. Fujiwara and Council and then with Mr. Fujiwara and the public library, Palmer Square and developers of the Benson Building.

Mr. Fujiwara, a New York architect specializing in parking garages, has been given the contract to design the Borough's $3 million parking garage planned for the lot next to the public library.

An enthusiastic, genial man with an infectious grin, Mr. Fujiwara acknowledged at the start of his public presentation that a parking garage is "a very sensitive and difficult subject in a residential community."

And "difficult" was the word, as he had discovered earlier from a bristling library delegation. The Princeton Public Library wants to put a third story on its present building and extend the south wall - the children's room - into an area perilously close to the garage. In addition, the library's architect, Thaddeus Longstreth, would like solar panels and enough room for the low winter sun to strike the panels and enter the children's room.

Borough and Township have provided $43,000 for preparation of working drawings as the first step in an eventual application for whatever Federal money may be available. If there is no Federal money, it isn't yet known whether the two governing bodies would authorize library expansion under local financing.

Mr. Longstreth and Dennis Woodfield, vice - president of the library's trustees and chairman of the building committee, claimed they had been promised 55 feet between library and garage; however, Mayor Cawley said he'd rather not talk in terms of specific feet, but rather of providing room for a landscaped area between library and garage, and enough room for the sun to maneuver in.

Mr. Fujiwara brought along some half - dozen preliminary ideas. One would use only the library lot, but the garage would have to be seven stories or 70 feet high, and Mr. Fujiwara said he thought that was too tall. Others were lower - one only 40 feet high - but they would have to be spread out over the site and would require purchase of the row of stores along Spring Street.

The architect's favorite, he said, was a five - story structure with a T-shape on the library lot connected by a Spring Street bridge to a smaller five - story garage on the Tulane Street lot. The stem of the "T" would extend to Witherspoon Street. It would be terraced with a two - story front on the street, a step - back to a three - story unit, then a step - back to a four - story unit and finally the garage.

The idea, Mr. Fujiwara explained, was to minimize the impact of the five - story building and not have a fortress - like front immediately on Witherspoon.

"You'd get as much sun with terracing, maybe more," he assured the library.

Around the edge of the "T", Mr. Fujiwara suggests 12,000 square feet of commercial space designed as small stores. Mayor Cawley and Council seem to like this idea. At a meeting this Wednesday, they are scheduled to talk it over and send Mr. Fujiwara their decision.

Building the garage with commercial space would cost more, but would have tremendous return, Mr. Fujiwara predicted. The Borough would be the owner, but would like to keep rents competitive with commercial store rents around town, the mayor explained.

"I think the library would be more comfortable with the Borough than with a private developer of these stores, somebody who would want more density."

The architect suggested that the Borough might encourage stores that would be "in the best interests of the community," which a commercial landowner couldn't afford. He mentioned a bookstore.

He also observed that a good, fast - food establishment might find the parking garage a prime site.

"The Borough's desire for revenue from commercial property is forcing the intrusion of the parking garage into space promised the library," Mr. Woodfield declared.

Asked how shop-keepers might feel about the Borough as a competitor, John T. Henderson Jr., who is rebuilding the Benson Building with Lawrence Benson, shrugged:

"We're turning people away who wanted to rent with us," he said.

Then he told Mr. Fujiwara and Borough officials that his main concern was traffic, and Mayor Cawley echoed that.

Eric Mihan, who owns The English Shop, asked why Mr. Fujiwara had no garage entrance on Witherspoon but only on Spring and Tulane.

"We want to reduce car use on Witherspoon to help the library," he said. "You would drive along Witherspoon and turn in at Spring."

Mr. Mihan also strongly protested the proposed closing of Hulfish, in the northward expansion planned by Palmer Square, Inc. "We need streets as much as we need parking!" he exclaimed.

Mr. Fujiwara, who had pointed out earlier to Council that 600 cars will be entering the garage each morning, promised a traffic study of the area.

Mr. Fujiwara told his various audiences that he's been working on the garage only three weeks and doesn't yet have any ideas about design details. He did say that he likes the idea of brick, and prefers open sides to screening because screen "walls" make the building look bulkier.

In his favorite scheme, which has the T-formation and does not require an outlay of some $500,000 to buy the Spring Street stores, Mr. Fujiwara sketches a walkway between the rear of these stores and the "T".

The landscaped walkway, which leads to a glass-backed (for security) elevator, might encourage existing stores to dress up their rear entrances to attract the using public, he remarked.

This scheme also envisions purchase of the Public Service property east of the library. Mr. Woodfield and librarian Robert Staples expressed concern over the fate of the narrow delivery alley leading to the library from Wiggins, but Mr. Fujiwara emphasized that his design is a very preliminary one.

"We're sympathetic to you," he smiled at Mr.

Woodfield. "We want to see what we can do to be in harmony with you and to provide the best over-all project."

Mayor Cawley said on Monday that no date has yet been set for Mr. Fujiwara and the library architect to confer together.

How to shop for a motorized bicycle

Now that you've decided to buy a motorized bicycle, how do you decide which one to buy?

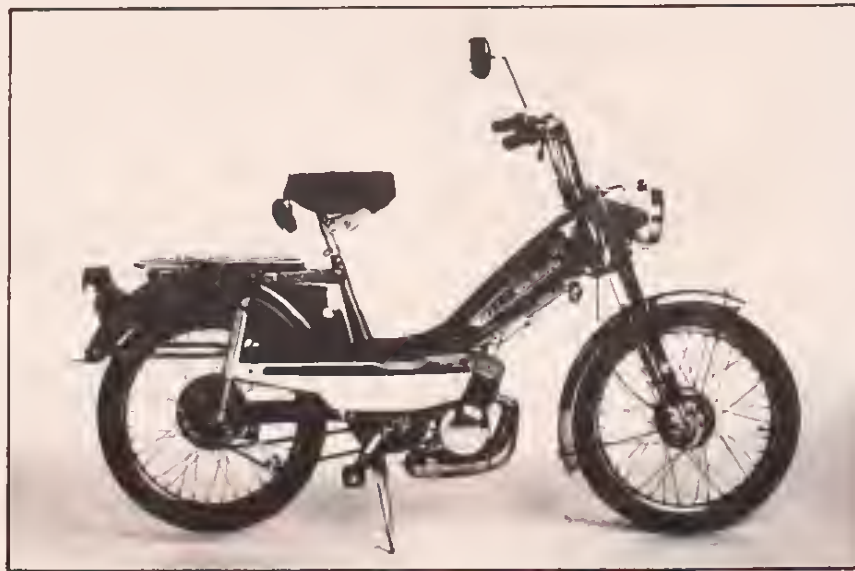

1 Compare wheels. For example, the wheels on a Motobecane have wide-flange hubs, shorter, heavier-gauge spokes than others to withstand potholes and stay round.

2 Compare tires. A Motobecane has wide Michelin tires for a good grip on the road.

3 Check the engine. Does the company that makes the bicycle make the engine? Is the exhaust protected and under the bicycle like a Motobecane? Can you get a Variator (Variable Ratio Drive) for improved hill climbing?

4 Ask about the company that makes the bicycle. Do they make their own frames, engines and most other components? Or do they buy them from other people? Are they big enough to be around for a while? Motobecane is the largest manufacturer of motorized bicycles in the world - 20 million in the last 30 years.

5 Ask about parts & service. Does the dealer have factory trained and certified mechanics like a Motobecane dealer? Does he have parts? Can he get parts fast from central warehouses in the U.S. like Motobecane?

Compare any make with Motobecane and there is no comparison at all.

30 TEACHERS DISMISSED
By Regional Schools. Notices have been sent to 30 non-tenured teachers in the Princeton schools notifying them that they aren't being hired for next year. All tenured teachers are being retained.

However, only some 12 teaching positions are actually being eliminated, Assistant Superintendent Paul Jennings pointed out this week. Many of the 30 teachers were hired for only one year as replacements for people on leave and presumably did not expect to be retained.

"We have fewer teachers going on leave than are coming back," Dr. Jennings said.

The 12 positions that are being eliminated — and the number is approximate — can be traced to declining enrollment in all schools except Princeton High School, he explained.

Names Are Withheld. The schools decline to give the names of teachers who are not being re-hired, but Dr. Jennings said that all schools and categories are affected — social studies, music, science, and so on. Only the art departments have not been touched, he said, due to a commitment made after last year's cuts.

"We can bring some of the 30 back when we have more

206 Between Valley and Bayard Lane To Have 1-Lane Traffic for 2 Weeks

Motorists will have to put up with Route 206 a bit longer before things get better. Acting Lt. Jack Petrone reported that the State Highway Department will begin repair of the pock-marked section between Valley Road and Bayard Lane this Wednesday. He estimated that the area would be limited to one-lane traffic for about two weeks.

This will be no mere resurfacing. Underground water is causing the roadway to heave and highway repairmen will dig down to try to drain it out.

To avoid the resultant bottleneck, Lt. Petrone urged drivers who use the busy artery, especially those coming South, to take Jefferson Road or Witherspoon Street as alternates.

Also in process of construction in the same area is a jug handle leading to the Community Park area being developed on the north side of Route 206. When it is completed, Bayard Lane will no longer run into Mountain Avenue — those wishing to reach it will turn right off 206 and use the jug handle. A traffic signal light will control its intersection with 206.

information on sabbaticals or leaves," Dr. Jennings continued. "I'd say this might amount to five or seven people. These re-hirings would probably occur in special education, music and science."

Attrition Expected. The board acted on staff cuts at its meeting on April 26. It is anticipated that attrition — retirements, resignations and leave requests — will allow most tenured employees to have a regular teaching assignment. If there are more employees than positions, unassigned teachers will serve as permanent substitutes within the system.

This can be done economically because the board must pay for substitutes whether they are permanent or temporary, and because the board will not have to pay out unemployment benefits for those who would have been dismissed.

The system by which staff members are eliminated is known as "Riffing," a term derived from "Reduction in Force."

Constitution Hill. Two more Township Zoning Board meetings may wind up the Constitution Hill requests and presentation of the opposition case.

Constitution Hill will be on the board's agenda for the regular May meeting Wednesday, May 24, at 7:30 and for a special meeting Friday, May 26, also at 7:30.

At last Wednesday's meeting, the board saw slides of the Lyme Hill development in Greenwich, Connecticut, designed by Arthur Collins, who would be the developer of Constitution Hill. Wayne Patterson, engineer for Van Note Harvey, of Princeton, testified that Constitution Hill's silt-loam is suitable for building. He also said that under the Township's drainage ordinance, the development will probably need a storm retention basin. It could be a dry pond, he suggested, or a wet one with enough room to hold storm water and let it out slowly.

The development won't be built until sewer tie-ins are permitted as the state lifts the sewer moratorium, explained attorney Thomas C. Jamieson. Mr. Patterson said nearby existing sewer lines are adequate, and the present Constitution Hill house is already tied into the sewer.

Varlance Essential. A. Perry Morgan, whose family owns the Constitution Hill property, and Mr. Collins are before the Zoning Board asking for a use variance to convert the mansion into eight luxury apartments and for permission to build new houses incorporating flats.

Board that the eight apartments in the house would sell for about the same as apartments in the remodeled Guernsey Hall, and that remodeling will be so expensive that development of the entire property, with the new, clustered houses, is required just to break even.

In another matter, the board approved variances needed by Joseph Stonaker to convert the former Bovino Market building on the corner of John and Leigh into law offices for himself and associates. Architect Harrison Fraker said the side parking area will be concealed by a hedge, with a trellis along the blank John Street side of the building. A large apple tree near the Birch Avenue end of the property, will remain and will be left outside the parking area, he said.

HOSPITAL PARKING
Will Lease 100 Borough Spaces. The Medical Center at Princeton will lease from the Borough 100 parking spaces in the Maclean parking lot for a four-month period, Mayor Robert W. Cawley announced this week.

The hospital has been diverting visitor traffic to parking areas near the community swimming pool while the hospital's parking garage is under construction. With swimming season just ahead, the hospital must find another place for visitor parking and has decided on the Maclean lot. Entrance to the lot is from Witherspoon Street at Maclean.

The rent to the Borough will be $500 a month. Mayor Cawley said this just about meets the Borough's costs for maintaining and policing the lot.

The Maclean lot, with 120 spaces, is rented from The Ivy Company at $5,000 a year. The Borough is in the red where the lot is concerned and has only 12 24-hour renters at $7 a month and two or three permits for 12-hour parking at $12 a month. Most of the subscribers are people living in the area who have no driveways in which to park.

"When construction starts on our own Borough garage, it will be great to have this Maclean lot," Mayor Cawley said, adding that when the Borough passes a new ordinance freeing property-owners from providing their own parking, the lot will be a boon to Palmer Square, Inc., in its proposed new development.

RACE ST. PARKING

New Rules Listed. New regulations designed to cut down long-term parking on Race Street will be up for public hearing this Wednesday at 8 p.m. before Township Committee. The regulations were requested by residents of Race Street.

Committee will also hold public hearing on the Federally-required soil erosion and sediment control ordinance, and will introduce a new ordinance amending the surface water drainage requirements.

Township officials say they have not yet heard whether citizens protesting the Planning Board's Greene subdivision approval have decided to appeal the Superior Court decision that said Township Committee could

The Day after Friday

*Sun Day celebration
Brates the Sun.
It also means
"Let's have some fun!"*

There were a lot of people ready to celebrate the sun long before this weekend, if only it would toast things up a bit Monday. For example, the Skillman - Blawenburg area reported temperatures in the high 20s, with early - morning risers scraping frost off their windshields. Monday, it says here, was May 1.

The Man said he thought Wednesday would bring the last of the unseasonal chill. Actually, April wasn't all that cold - just a few degrees below normal for the entire 30 days - but the weird part of it all was that the month's highest temperature (74) was recorded on the first day. No fooling.

The question now is when it will rain again - a question no one expected to have on the agenda until the dry spell now starting its third week began on April 20. Watch a developing low pressure area in the Texas - Louisiana region on your weather map. If it heads this way, the weekend could bring that long - needed precipitation.

not legally hear the citizens' appeal from Planning Board action. Committee itself has not decided whether to appeal the ruling.

TWO HOMES ENTERED

On North Tulane Street. Two homes on North Tulane Street were entered last week, probably within hours of each other.

Between 8:40 Friday evening and 3:30 Saturday morning, a thief climbed through a window off a rear porch to enter one home. Once inside, he stole three camera lenses valued at $524 and $8 in pennies.

Earlier, between 9 a.m. and 10:30 p.m. Friday, a second home was entered by way of a basement window. It yielded $25 from a second floor bedroom. Sgt. Robert Anderson investigated both entries.

An intruder was frightened off earlier in the week inside a home on Linden Lane.

Police report that the occupant heard a noise around 8:20 in the evening, looked up and saw a man reaching into the living room to remove a camera from a table.

As she noticed him, the thief also observed her. He turned and fled out the rear door, the same way he had entered, police said.

Caught Inside School. A 17-year old Princeton youth was apprehended by Township police early Saturday morning inside the Johnson Park School. Taken to headquarters where he was charged with breaking and entering and larceny, he was processed and later released to his parents.

Landmark Ordinance

Questions Raised. "If owners had a veto, it would be hard to assemble a landmark neighborhood, like Mercer Hill for example," the mayor added. "Should we designate landmarks first? The owner would be in a bad position to be so designated without knowing the consequences. Should we make a list, after a study, without actually designating? Should we have a publicly - appointed group that uses moral suasion to urge people to keep up landmark property? I oppose that."

The mayor, who said he believed opponents were over - reacting and that the ordinance would not be "onerous," suggested a "sunset" provision, allowing the ordinance to die after a stated period of years.

"That way, we'd guarantee that another mayor and council could cut it off, if it's been an administrative nightmare."

The Borough's rent - levelling ordinance had such a "sunset" clause.

Seminary Concurred. At Monday night's meeting, there was a presentation in favor of the ordinance lasting an hour and 20 minutes. Questions were allowed from the floor after that time.

Although Princeton Theological Seminary did not make a full - dress statement of opposition, the Seminary's attorney, Frank Reiche, said that 70 percent of the institution's buildings were built before 1900 and warned that the Seminary has "serious reservations" about the ordinance.

Attorney James Britt, for Princeton University, said as he has before, that the University is concerned.

Gus Escher, former Borough Council member, said it would be an economic advantage to Princeton to have a landmarks ordinance because people come here to shop in a picturesque town.

"But he presented no study," Mr. Ross objected later, "how do we know why shoppers come here? What we do know, is that shopping malls are keeping them away." An impartial study might find that the designation of 200 homes might have no identifiable benefits to merchants whatsoever.

"It's interesting that there is no list of potential landmarks," he continued, "If there are only ten, what are the economic advantages? And do we want a society with no room for eccentricity? Our forefathers left the Old World because they were unhappy with conformity."

Two Are Arrested. Two Middlesex residents have been arrested in connection with the theft a week ago of two stereo cartridges valued at $104 from Tech Hi Fi on Palmer Square.

Clayton Nelson, 25, and Dennis Proper, 20, were arrested on warrants in Middlesex and turned over to Borough police and Det. Timothy Huizing, the complainant. Both were later released in their own recognizance pending court action.

Hashish Charge. Twenty-year old William C. Tucker of Skillman has been charged with possession of less than 25 grams of hashish by Township police, following his arrest early Saturday morning.

He was arrested by Ptl. Mario Musso who was making a routine check at 3:30 a.m. of a car which he thought had been abandoned on a dirt pulloff next to Herrontown Woods. He found Tucker forced open a candy vending machine in the basement of Green Hall and removed 500 pieces of candy worth 25 cents each and 100 pieces of gum. "Someone has a sweet tooth," observed Chief Michael Carnevale.

In another campus theft, a $200 stereo turntable was removed from an unlocked music room in the Woolworth Music Center.

A Westminster Choir College student reported on Sunday the theft of her blue leather wallet containing $175 during the 20 minutes she was absent from her unlocked room. Township police also list the theft of two clarinets from a music room at Princeton Day School. Their combined value: $500. Dean Sanford Bing notified police of the theft Thursday.

A locked locker at the YWCA yielded a wallet containing $2.45. Recovered the next day at the Y, it was the property of a West Windsor resident, police said.

Thieves on Wheels. Borough police also report the theft of a car, motorcycle and bicycle.

The car, a 1978 2-door yellow Ford Granada, was stolen between 7 and 11 Sunday evening from a Cleveland Lane driveway. It is owned, police said, by a visitor from northern New Jersey who left the keys in the ignition. The registration number: DBG 79-6.

In storage since January, a red and black Honda motorcycle was taken from a garage at the rear of a home on Moore Street. It has a Pennsylvania registration and is valued at $425.

The bicycle was stolen Saturday night while it was CUNARD LINE'S "OREGON": A highlight of this year's YMCA Antiques Show will be a special exhibit of items raised by scuba divers from ships sunk during the 19th and early 20th centuries. Included will be bells, china, glassware, marine hardware and other memorabilia brought up from the "Oregon" sunk in 120 feet of water off Fire Island, N.Y., and other ships.

left unlocked in front of a house on Chestnut Street. Nassau Street. Police said the car was unlocked.

ANTIQUES SHOW SET

To Aid YMCA Programs. The ninth annual YMCA antiques show and sale will be held Saturday from 10 to 10 and Sunday from noon to 6. Over 35 antique dealers from Maine to Virginia will display a wide array of antiques.

Among the featured items will be special collections of rare pewter, jewelry, scrimshaw, oriental rugs, cloisonne, Russian enamels, jades and ivory carvings and early American tools. Items will be priced from a few dollars to several thousand to give the widest number of people an opportunity to find something to suit their tastes and budgets.

A highlight of the show will be a special exhibit of "Rare Marine Artifacts from Ships Beneath the Sea." The exhibit will consist of historic items raised by scuba divers from vessels sunk during the early 19th and 20th centuries. The display will include glassware, china, brass hardware, bells, buttons and other nautical memorabilia. The show will also have on display and sale 18th and early 19th century American and English furniture, including primitive and painted pieces; English and German porcelains, mechanical toys and tools, Chinese export, paintings, folk art, quilts, coverlets and glassware. The interior of the YMCA will be landscaped as a garden by Woodwinds.

In addition to the antiques there will be fresh foods and beverages available, all prepared by parents of YMCA members. Parking will be available in the parking lot at no charge.

All proceeds go to the youth program, making up the difference in actual cost and benefitting many area youngsters who otherwise would be unable to participate. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Cooke are chairmen.

ROBBER GETS $75
Clerk Knocked Unconscious. A night clerk at Somerset Farms Store, 261 Nassau Street, was clubbed unconscious Saturday night by a robber who escaped with $75 from the cash register.

The victim, a Westminster Choir College student, was taken by ambulance to Princeton Medical Center, where he was treated and later released.

Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, Ptl. Victor Fasanella and Ptl. William Clark responded to a call at 11:04 p.m. from the victim, who told police that a 6-2 black male wearing a tan jacket and red bandana on his head had entered the store and walked up to him. Police report that he struck the attendant over the head several times with a wooden club, causing him to fall to the floor unconscious. The assailant then dragged him to a back room, took the money and fled.

Det. Gerald Patterson is continuing the investigation.

Once called Park Place, the farm was a major supplier of horses and grain to the livery stables of New York City. The animals and feed were loaded on to canal barges for the trip to the city along the Delaware and Raritan Canal. After the advent of the automobile, the land became a dairy farm until this past winter when most of the milking herd was sold.

HAIL TO THE SUN

It's Day Is Coming. Since daylight saving means more evening sun, the Sun Day people have decided to start Saturday's Sun celebration on Friday evening, with an 8 p.m. "Solar Panel".

Take the kids and yourself to Peyton Hall (down Washington Road, second street on the left is Ivy Lane, Peyton is the contemporary building on your right).

You can hear Professor Martin Schwarzschild tell "What makes the sun shine." You can see slides of solar houses designed by architects Douglas Kelbaugh and Harrison Fraker. You can hear Frank W. Sinden tell just where heat leaked out of Twin Rivers houses and see whether your house might have a heat-leak, too.

All of this will be very brief, and you can ask any question you like afterwards. Free, too.

It All Starts at 11. Next day, the real Sun Day will open at 11 a.m. with a procession of bands and banners.

Be at Princeton University's Fitzrandolph Gates (that's the big main gate on Nassau Street) in whatever costume you like, with your re-cycled musical instrument made out of a comb, an old can or you-know-what, and join the Princeton University Band for a Procession of the Sun.

Prizes? Naturally. "Most Energizing". "Most Sun-struck." "Most Sun-full." "Sunnier Smile." "Almost Sun-struck." Etc.

And a lot of ribbons for people who are doing nothing but looking great.

At 11:30, Creative Theatre will be at Palmer Square and Sarah Jane's Recorder Group in that sylvan grove across Nassau Street from Landau's Too.

Folk-dancing at Palmer Square at 12:30 and the Princeton Folk Music Society on Tulane Street at one in the afternoon.

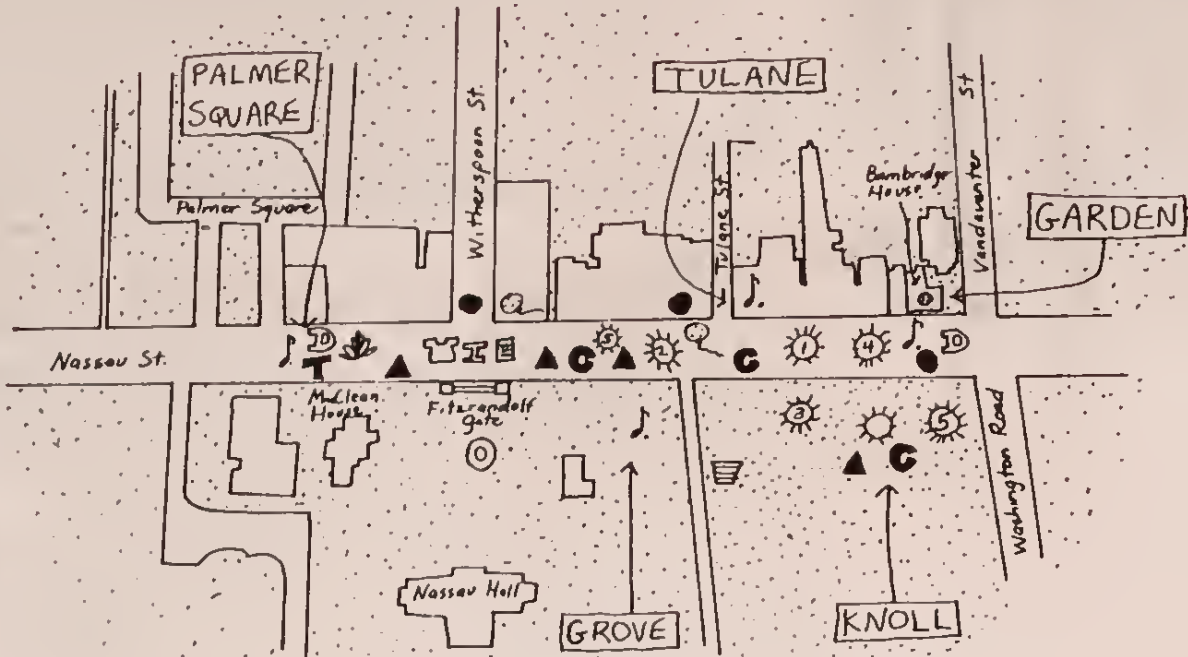

That Grove will be devoted to music all afternoon, and at 12:30 there will be Chris D'Estrang, at 1:15 the Engelcher Consort, at 2:15 Caroline Moseley with her guitar and songs for children and at 3, the PDS Middle School String Quartet.

Jazz at 1. Back in the Mainstream - that's the name of the contemporary jazz ensemble that will be in front of the Garden Theatre at 1, followed by the Princeton Ethnic Folk Dancers at 2:15.

Singer (songwriter, too) Bob Korman will be around Palmer Square at 2 p.m. and so will the Hot Biscuits Bluegrass Band.

All afternoon there will be solar workshops on the Knoll (that's in front of Firestone Library where the big Nevelson sculpture stands.)

The photovoltaic cell, developed by RCA for the Federal Department of Energy, will be on display in front of Woolworth's. This is the cell that converts solar rays into electricity.

A windmill, which doesn't even need the sun to work, will be on the street for you to examine and what the Princeton Arts Council calls "the hot water people" will demonstrate how to save hot water, how to use the sun to make water hot, and all that.

Arts Council? Of course. They are the sponsors, hosts, and hard workers who are the power behind the Sun.

Tee Shirts on Sale. Don't forget to buy your tee-shirt. They'll be on sale for $4 at Nassau and Palmer Square all this week. The blue shirt, with its yellow sun and the legend, "Celebrate...Princeton, N.J.", comes in adult sizes large and medium and children's sizes large and medium. For a very small child, it's a nightie.

The shirts were designed by "a committee," and made available through Zinder's. You can buy them at the Whole Earth Center, A la Mode on Witherspoon, the University Store, Country Mouse and Urken's.

Sun Day's sunshine will have to be stored away when the day comes to an end at 4. That's when the Hot Biscuits will play at Palmer Square for the "Hoedown at Sundown."

If you want to know where to go, see the map on page 10. (In case of R-n, Sun Day will be Sunday.)

POST PROM PARTY SET
At Sportsmen's Club. The "Summer Breeze" theme of the PHS prom will be complemented by a "Hot Winds" after-the-prom party on Saturday, May 13, from 1-5 a.m. at the Italian-American Club.

Parental concerns about unchaperoned post-prom parties, alcohol, and trips to the shore were brought to the PHS-PTO Board. Students - over 200 of them - agreed, and the project was under way. A committee chaired by Michael Fuschini included parents Joan and Tom Tomlinson, Jackie and Ray Wadsworth, Betty Cleveland, and Betty Sapoch joined by staff members Eleanor Pinelli and Carmen Prezioso.

A student group went to work too. Eric Pike, with fellow artists, started turning out banners and posters.

Recruitment for volunteers is still taking place, aided by Miss Florence Burke at PHS.

The Italian-American Club will be turned into a disco with a disc jockey to keep the music going. A cold buffet will be followed by a continental breakfast at dawn. Student tickets to the event are priced at $1 per person with the purchase of prom tickets.

Additional funding has come from Rotary, Lions, Gentlemen of Sports, Inc., Italian-American Club, PHS-PTO, and other parents, citizens and staff members. A number of prizes ranging from the sublime (five pounds of chocolates) to the ridiculous (a free hall pass from Principal George Petrillo) will be awarded during the wee morning hours. Anyone who might like to contribute ideas, interest, prizes, time or money should contact any committee member without delay.

Six Historic Homes, on View Sunday, May 14, To Offer a Picturesque View of Town's Past

A tour of Historic Homes of Princeton will be held on Sunday, May 14, from 2 until 6 to benefit the Historical Society.

Included in the tour will be two Mercer Street homes, "The Music Box," residence of Herbert C. Sturhahn, and "Springdale," residence of Dr. and Mrs. James I. McCord. Research into old maps and records indicates that "The Music Box," a townhouse in the style of Princeton architect - builder Charles Steadman, was probably built in the 1820's and has been only slightly altered since. Here, on a front porch that was removed many years ago, Princeton University's famous college song "Old Nassau" was written in 1859 by Karl P. Langlotz.

"Springdale," a Victorian Gothic mansion half hidden from the street by trees, was built about 1850 for a member of the Stockton family. With its towers and gables, diamond-paned windows, elegant woodwork and wrought iron work, it is a survivor of the romantic era. Since 1903 it has been the residence of presidents of the Princeton Theological Seminary.

Also open for the tour will be "Westland," home of Mrs. J. Taylor Woodward, and 10 Cleveland Lane, home of Mrs. Jeanne A. French. Built as separate structures on what was then the same property, the two houses were connected by President Grover Cleveland while he lived at "Westland" from 1897 until his death in 1908. The house and property were separated again in 1950.

Joined and Divided. "Westland," was built in 1854 by Commodore Robert F. Stockton, grandson of Richard Stockton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. It combines Georgian and Italianate elements in its facade, and the spacious interior is decorated with WESTLAND: Grover Cleveland's home after he left the presidency until his death in 1908 is one of the Historic Homes of Princeton to be on tour Sunday, May 14, from 2 to 6. Tickets are available from the Historical Society, 158 Nassau Street, 921-6748.

elaborate plasterwork and mantels. Number 10 Cleveland Lane was built in 1870 as a coach house for "Westland."

During Grover Cleveland's ownership the building served as the "Westland" service wing, and so it remained until after the death of Cleveland's widow when "Westland" was sold and the property divided. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce H. French transformed the old coach house and a warren of small service rooms into a home. The grounds, designed by Mrs. French, a landscape architect, include roses planted by Mrs. Cleveland, an ancient swamp maple tree, and a medicinal herb garden.

"Mansgrove," one of Princeton's early estates will also be open for the tour. Now being restored by its new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Toms B.

Royal, "Mansgrove" includes a mid-18th-century wing. The elegant main portion of the house, built in the 1790's, contains a fine staircase and beautifully carved mantels.

"Coventry Farm," the country estate of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Winant, combines architecture from three centuries: a late 18th-century farmhouse, a mid-19th-century central portion, and a 1917 drawing room wing. It continues today as a working farm.

During the tour, weather permitting, refreshments will be served on the lawn at "Westland." Tickets at $7.50 may be ordered through May 8 from the Historical Society, 158 Nassau Street, 921-6748, and will also be on sale at each of the houses on the day of the tour.

FLOWER SALE PLANNED

In Rocky Hill. The annual flower sale sponsored by the Rocky Hill Community Group will be held Thursday, May 11, from 1-6; Friday, May 12, 10-5 and Saturday, May 13, from 10-5, at the Community House in the center of town on Rt. 518.

Sale items popular in former years will be joined by new choices: cosmos, gaillardia, scabiosa, poppy, "hens and chicks," painted daisies, lemon verbena and lemon balm. New for the garden are Brussels sprouts, zucchini and melon. A few new varieties of azalea are among the selection of shrubs.

Profits from this sale enable the Rocky Hill Community Group to sponsor educational and recreational projects available to all.

MOTHERS DAY FAIR SET

To Aid PHS Choir Trip. Nassau Inn and the steering committee to raise funds for the Princeton High School Choir's trip to Spoleto USA in Charleston have joined forces to plan a festive afternoon for all on Sunday, May 14, from 1 to 5 at Palmer Square. All funds will be used to finance the young people's trip to Charleston.

The Square will be closed to traffic to facilitate the enjoyment of a panorama of activities. St. Elmo's Fire Bluegrass Band will perform and, at the other end of the music spectrum, the McClure Family will present chamber music. Paul and Mary Ritts, nationally known puppeteers, will roam the Square with their puppets, talking with children, and will present two showings of films starring their animal friends.

Caricatures will be drawn at your request by Bill Crowley. There will be clowns, clowns, clowns, including a gymnast and a unicyclist. There will be folk dancing, balloons, and food, from hotdogs, to peanuts, to lemonade.

PARTY PLANNED

For Israel's 30th Anniversary. A party in celebration of the 30th anniversary of the founding of the State of Israel will be held Saturday evening, May 13, starting at 9 at the Princeton Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street.

Entertainment for the evening will include a program of authentic Israeli songs with guitar accompaniment by Dorit Er-El; Middle Eastern dancing in the "Persian" style by the well-known performers, Dasha and Cindia, and music by the Kol Simcha Band from Princeton University. The refreshments will feature traditional Israeli dishes.

The sponsoring organizations invite the community to join in the festivities. A contribution of $2.50 for an adult or $1.50 for a student is requested.

CARDS AVAILABLE

For Windsor Tennis. The West Windsor Recreation Commission has announced that tennis I.D. cards will be available on Monday afternoons from 3-6 during the month of May at the Municipal Building on Clarksville Road.

The card is mandatory for any leagues or lessons run by the commission. It is also required for general play on the courts. For any further information call the recreation office at 799-2400.

FAIR PLANNED

At Lawrenceville School. The 26th annual Lawrenceville Elementary School Country Fair will be held on Saturday from 10 to 4 at the school grounds on Craven Lane, Lawrenceville.

The midway will feature balloons, darts, a big wheel race and other games. Rides on the fire engine will also be available. For the hungry there will be hot dogs, hamburgers and ice cream cones made to order.

This year there will be a Mother's Day Craft Shop which will sell items made by and for the children. These include small pillows, kitchen plaques, book marks and pin-cushions. The country store will stock baked goods, jams, jellies, pickles and penny candy. A plant booth will provide geraniums, cuttings and hanging baskets.

Toys, books, games, records and jewelry will be available in various booths. In case of bad weather, the fair will be held inside the school.

FILMMAKER AT LIBRARY

To Show Two Movies. The Public Library will present an evening with Colin Hill, Princeton filmmaker, on Tuesday at 8. Mr. Hill, a Princeton University graduate, spent over ten years as film editor with the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Two films to be screened were produced by Mr. Hill in Ireland. The first, "Dark Moon Hollow," describes an old man's travels through County Cork and his memories of the music, poetry and events of his youth. The second, "Duhallow Home," portrays a young aristocratic woman, rejected by her lover, as she returns to "Duhallow" to forget the present and immerse herself in past memories.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT BRINGING MEALS TO SHUT-INS: Betty Rogerson and Sally Griffin, Meals on Wheels volunteers, check supper bags before departing on the daily delivery to clients of the home-delivered meals program.

By Meals on Wheels. Meals on Wheels, an ongoing program of the Council of Community Services, is looking for additional volunteers.

Since its launching in March, 1972, as a pilot program of the Council of Community Services, volunteers have brought 28,448 meals to 289 shut-ins, convalescents, handicapped and older people who find it difficult to shop and prepare meals. Serving the United Fund - Red Cross area, Meals on Wheels now delivers from both Princeton and Hightstown.

Each weekday morning at 10:30 four volunteers meet at Red Cross headquarters on Harrison Street to review the clients of the day. They plan the delivery routes around Plainsboro, West Windsor, Penns Neck, Kingston, Princeton and Montgomery Township, gather up the insulated containers in which to carry the meals and in two teams drive east toward the back entrance of RCA Laboratories.

At the same time, Hightstown area volunteers drive to RCA Astro Electronics, their routes planned in and about East Windsor, Hightstown and Cranbury. Once the volunteers have arrived, professionally planned and prepared meals are dished into the containers. The food is good, and the RCA employees are as interested as everyone else in the program to seeing that the shut-ins have reason to look forward to each day's meal.

Not only is a hot dinner prepared consisting of soup, meat, vegetables, rolls, milk and dessert, but also a sandwich supper is bagged for later in the day.

A little before noon, delivery begins, the favorite part of the day for client and volunteer alike. While the visits are short, many matters of mutual interest are touched upon: the children, new grandchildren, flowers and, of course, the weather. Volunteers find that these few minutes make all the planning and driving worthwhile.

A large number of the volunteers who started in 1972 have continued with the program. Any decimation of the ranks has usually been brought about by their moving away from the community or returning to the job market. New volunteers are always welcome, and anyone interested should call the Red Cross at 924-2404.

DONATIONS SOUGHT

For Fete Flea Market. The Silver Fete's flea market is ready to collect items homeowners might wish to donate from spring cleaning. Any item is acceptable as long as it is in usable condition.

PLANT SALE DUE

By West Windsor AFS. A spaghetti supper is scheduled for Thursday, May 11, at the West Windsor - Plainsboro High School. Everyone is invited to join in this event which will benefit the WW-P Chapter of the American Field Service.

AFS arranges the international exchange of high school students who travel to live and study in another country for a summer or for a year. West Windsor has been host to four foreign students in the past three years and has sent three students abroad.

The supper will include tossed salad, Italian bread, spaghetti and meat balls, sherbet and cookies, fruit punch and coffee. There will be three sittings, 5, 6 and 7 p.m., with light entertainment in between. Tickets are $3 for ages 11 and up; $2 for children 10 years and younger.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the high school AFS Student Club and the Parents' Club, or by calling Anne Lowe at 799-3685.

At Einstein Moomjy. The Einstein Moomjy Carpet Department Store in Lawrenceville is a kingdom where the treasures of the realm are beautiful carpets in a collection of every size, shape, color, texture, design, origin. These riches are sought diligently in every country of the world to give you a king's choice for a peasant's pocket money. Quality is sovereign whether you're seeking a remnant or the finest oriental.

Albert Moomjy, one of the four rulers of this carpet kingdom, recently visited the Lawrenceville store. Did you think his name was Einstein Moomjy? Not so. The Einstein Moomjy Carpet Department Stores are owned by Albert Moomjy; his brother, Walter; and the Einstein twins, Ernst and Ted, hence the name, Einstein Moomjy. Five other Einstein Moomjy stores, besides Lawrenceville, are their royal domain -- Paramus, North Plainfield, Bloomfield, Wayne and Whippany.

Albert Moomjy travels all over the world to find peerless hand-made orientals. Walter Moomjy selects the incomparable area rugs, Ernst Einstein is in charge of customer relations and Ted Einstein handles advertising and marketing. This combination of talents and energy presents an organization unmatched for discriminating taste and service.

Orientals and Area Rugs. At the Lawrenceville store, where Mr. Arnold Renson, manager, rules supreme, the many carpet departments are displayed in a palace-sized room. Rich, glowing, hand-made oriental rugs hang on the walls like jewels in a setting, the pride of Iran, Pakistan, India, People's Republic of China, Turkey, Afghanistan, Romania.

Area rugs from Europe and America provide many choices, including American-made "Nevada Sunset," a contemporary design in earth tones and blue; fine Oriental-design rugs in worsted wool, made in Belgium; a textured Kabyl from Holland, alternating irregular sections of heavy and fine yarn; a fur-like Flokati from Greece.

Broadlooms. Einstein Moomjy has the largest selection of broadloom in the state of New Jersey, for wall-to-wall, or custom cut to any size and shape. Made in the United States, and also imported, it is popularly priced from $6.99 sq. yd. to $125 sq. yd. Fountain-like pedestals display a sparkling collection of velvets, luster velvets, saxony textures, tracery-carved, in cascades of solid colors or shades of one color.

Racks display patterned broadloom -- florals, geometrics, plaids, tweeds, abstracts, colonials. Berber broadloom has a hand-woven appearance and nubby texture, in earth tones, which is very much in demand now. Your selection will be guided by your lifestyle, the area in which the carpeting will be used, the amount of traffic it will receive and the price category you prefer.

Custom Carpets. The Custom Department can cut a rug any size and shape you wish -- oval, round, or stair runner -- dye it to any color you can imagine, or make it up to match a design of your choice.

The Commercial or Contract Department supplies institutions, businesses, and churches; a specialist can recommend types of carpeting for high traffic areas or executive offices, and suggest coordinating colors. The Back Yd. Department is like a small carpet shop -- a separate room where remnants or short rolls of the same good quality carpets are attractively displayed and sold at fantastic savings.

Services. Excellent service includes prompt and careful attention to your order, from the time you make your selection until the carpeting is delivered and installed in your home.

Deliveries are made locally in company trucks, but carpets can be shipped and installed anywhere in the world. Einstein Moomjy has a continuing interest in the life of each carpet, handling any problems or repairs that may arise.

Responsive Sales Personnel. The salespeople at the Einstein Moomjy Carpet Department Stores are courteous, empathetic and knowledgeable. Their self-assurance and confidence has been bolstered by attendance at monthly seminars, where experts discuss the technical aspects of rug manufacturing, basic interior decorating and interpretation of customer needs. They are further sustained by the knowledge that they can satisfy every customer's wishes from the tremendous variety of carpets at all price levels.

You will be treated royally at the Einstein Moomjy Carpet Department Store, 2801 alternate U.S. 1, Lawrenceville. There is easy parking in front of the store. Store hours are Monday through Friday 9:30-9, Saturday 9:30-5.

NEWSPRING ARRIVALS

At Nordcraft. Nordcraft is a shop that is as fresh, bright and appealing as the clean-lined Scandinavian designs it imports. Swedish Kosta Boda Crystal, Danish Clara Waever cross stitch designs, Norwegian knitting wool and Finnish Mohair blankets are representative of the products from the four Northland countries of Europe, beautiful to gaze upon and a pleasure to use. A basket of toys, a rocking horse and small table and chairs welcome children while mother shops.

Three women, all Swedish born, are the owners of Nordcraft. Anne-Marie Woodrow, Berit Marshall and Elsa Granade impart the charm of their homeland in accent, ease of manner and hospitality. Their European background gives them a special knowledge of the culture of the area and the traditional customs and uses we can borrow to enrich our own.

Old and New Favorites. Hearts are used as a decorating theme at Christmas in Sweden and Denmark. Now, new red enameled tinware with a design of white hearts lets us keep the spirit of Christmas all year around. Cannisters, cake and cookie tins, and trays brighten the kitchen and convey a home-made delicacy with love; $3.50 and up.

Swedish painted wooden horses, from tiny to large are long-time favorites in that country. Hand-crafted from sturdy wood and decorated with lead-free paint, they are durable toys or handsome accessories. Enjoy them in red or blue; $2.50 - $26.

Cross Stitch. Cross stitch, traditional handwork here and abroad, becomes a work of art with fresh, colorful designs from the Clara Waever Company. Three outstanding canvases -- a bouquet of flowers, a basket of garden vegetables, fruits from vine and orchard -- are beautiful with rich colors and subtle shadings. The company offers 800 different colors of embroidery floss -- up to 70 in each kit.

Eva Rosenstand and Haandarbejdet's Fremme are two other Danish companies presenting kits to be worked, including wall hangings, bell pulls, eyeglass cases, pillows, table runners and bookmarks. Nordcraft has a large number of its own original kits, designed by Elsa Granade and her partners, using cross stitch, and sometimes Greek stitch for an elongated, woven effect. All kits include embroidery yarn, design and material and are $3.25 (book-mark) and up.

An American made lucite rack, memorandum board, tray and Parsons table make pleasing gifts with panels of cross stitch in Nordcraft designs. Linen by the yard is stocked for people who make their own designs, as well as a full line of embroidery floss in linen or cotton. Cross stitch gifts for Christmas should be started now.

Kosta Boda. Kosta Boda, hand-blown Swedish crystal, comes from Sweden's oldest glassworks in many imaginative designs. Glass figurines are appealing chickens, roosters, rabbits; a pair of long-horned goats hold candles. Kosta Boda Octav is a shimmering ten-sided design for wine glasses and bowls.

Charming vases for your garden flowers appear in many shapes and sizes, with floral designs or fluted tops. A "U" shaped vase holds a double bouquet.

Kosta Boda's lovely candle-holding chandeliers are made

LATIN AMERICA HAS been the central theme of JW's House 6 Social Studies. Now that the business of learning about history, exploration, government, economics, and resources * with some map-making on the side - has concluded, the group is up to their eyebrows in the culture and arts of the area. Ideas and talents combine in a scaled diorama for the C-Wing; additionally, there are crafts in a learn-by-doing approach. Clay projects, basket-weaving, reed mats, tin lanterns, God's eyes, and maraca construction are part of the total experience. Teachers, parents, and volunteers are working with the students.

JW IS IN THE MARKET for Swim Supervisors for their gym classes during the May 22 to June 9 period. MAILBOX

From a Grateful Donor.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I want everybody to know what a wonderful hospital Princeton Hospital is and how good the people are. All the doctors who treated me in the Copley, the aide for out-patients were so good to me. You feel right at home.

In 1948 when I was working for American Air Lines, I fell from the window of a plane and broke some vertebrae. They took me to a hospital in Queens. It was awful. They said they couldn't take care of me because it was Sunday and they left me alone all night without food or care. I say this to show how different Princeton Hospital is. That could never, never happen here.

controversy that had arisen over some unimportant swear-words in the dialog. Youth is not corrupted by a play whose end is, as Hamlet said, to hold the mirror up to nature and show the very age and body of the time his form and pressure.

"Marketplace" Successful.

To the Editor of Town Topics: The Princeton Regional School's administration and PTO Council thank the many people who helped make our first community-wide venture, "Spring Marketplace," a success.

A very special thank you goes to those who donated goods, time, talent, and energy; each school's PTO; and Town Topics, which aided immeasurably with publicity.

So. African Holdings Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In recent weeks, members of the Princeton community have brought national attention to the question of the propriety of American organizations investing in the Republic of South Africa. American investment in strategic South African industries helps to perpetuate an economy and a society predicated on racial inequality and exploitation.

Because of the substantial local interest in this question and because of the substantial investment of Princeton institutions in the stock of corporations doing business in South Africa, this matter was brought before the Princeton Joint Commission on Civil Rights, the municipal organ with jurisdiction over civil rights and civil rights related questions, at its April 25th meeting.

The Princeton Joint Commission on Civil Rights adopted a resolution urging Princeton institutions and individuals alike to divest themselves of stock holdings in corporations which directly or indirectly facilitate the continuation of the repugnant system of apartheid in South Africa by doing business in that country.

The Commission took note of the fact that disciplinary actions are now pending against a number of Princeton University students who participated in a peaceful demonstration on the University campus designed to bring to the attention of the administrations that the University held blocks of stock in U.S. corporations with operations in the Republic of South Africa. The students' objective was to make known to the University their desire that these blocks of stock be sold.

The Princeton Joint Commission on Civil Rights would like to encourage Princeton University to withdraw the disciplinary charges now facing the students involved in the protest. The demonstration was not disruptive and the students were acting in the interest of the public conscience.

OK TO 19 VANDEVENTER

Office Use Approved. The long, continuing saga of the yellow house at the corner of Vandeventer and Park seems to have reached a happy ending.

The Borough Zoning Board last Thursday gave James S. Regan a use variance so that he may convert 19 Vandeventer from single-family to office use. He has a money management investment business.

The board told him, however, that he must submit a new application for approval of an existing apartment in the rear. The apartment is an illegal use in the Borough's R-4 residential zone. The board also told him he could have only eight cars in the rear parking area instead of the 11 he proposed.

If Mr. Regan obtains site plan approval from the Environmental Design Review committee, he can proceed with his plans.

Known as "The Beatty House" from an early owner, the house has had several owners who have wanted to sell it for non-residential use. It is said that the house is too big and needs too many renovations to appeal to a home-owner. For a time, it was occupied by Ardis Leigh antiques. The house has interior details regarded as historically and aesthetically valuable.

HEARING POSTPONED

For Hillier Townhouses. By the time the Borough Zoning Board completed hearings and action on other cases last Thursday, it was late and the board decided to postpone hearings on the request of Design Interface for a zone change at Nassau and Markham.

J. Robert Hillier, principal of Design Interface, would like the R-3 zone line moved north to Nassau so that he can build 12 townhouses at the corner of Nassau and Markham.

The Zoning Board will meet to hear Mr. Hillier on Thursday, May 18, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. The regular fourth-Thursday meeting date was changed so that Design Interface would not have to wait a full month.

NAMED AFFILIATE

With National Organization. K M Light Real Estate of 247 Nassau Street has been selected as the area representative of the Settler's Corporation, a real estate marketing organization serving independent brokers.

The Settler's firm offers its subscribing agencies ex-posure to a group of car prospective buyers, residential and commercial in the U.S. and abroad.

Karl and Pat Light, who have been in Princeton real estate for 21 years and owned their own firm since 1959, report that they have researched nationwide marketing services over a period of time without finding one they felt would be in keeping with the quality of the Princeton community and the standards of the Light office. They believe that their affiliation with the Settler's Corporation will be an auspicious one for them and for their clients.

BEST YEAR IN HISTORY

Fur Applied Data Research. Founded in 1956, Applied Data Research, the software computer firm based on Route 206 in Montgomery Township, has reported the best year of its 18 on the Princeton scene. President John R. Bennett said that both revenues and earnings topped all previous records.

"Revenues were 31 percent higher and earnings increased 55 percent," he told stockholders in the company's annual report. "These results fulfilled expectations conveyed to you last year."

Revenues were $16,930,000, Mr. Bennett said, compared to $12,913,000 for the preceding 12 months. Net earnings were $1.22 per share, compared to 84 cents a year ago, with non-recurring earnings of 30 cents included in the latter figure.

Last December, ADR declared its first quarterly dividend of four cents, a step that Mr. Bennett termed a milestone in its history. "We expect to continue this quarterly dividend and to consider increases as business conditions and cash requirements warrant," he said.

In the past five years, the president noted, the firm's sales have increased by more than 240 percent, while its client list (now in excess of 8,000) has nearly tripled. Plans are being made for a new corporate headquarters building in Montgomery near the Sourland Mountains.

The value of a share of Applied Data stock on the American Exchange has reflected its improved financial condition. In January, 1976, it sold as low as $1.50, and last week, it reached a 12-month high of 12⁵/₈.

THE RABBIT'S READY

VW Now Assembling In U.S. Volkswagen's first car assembled in the United States, the Rabbit, is a hatchback sedan that offers, according to Robert Feldman, head of Princeton VW on Route 206, excellent economy, efficient use of interior space and advanced engineering.

Mr. Feldman says that the

BUREAU HEAD TO SPEAK

At Chamber Lunch. The speaker at the Chamber of Commerce meeting on Wednesday at 12 will be Joseph M. Boyd, creator of the Consumer Bureau. Mr. Boyd will explain why he started Consumer Bureau, why he is currently expanding the Bureau into metropolitan Philadelphia, and what he believes the Bureau has to offer both to consumers and area business people.

Having spent most of his business life in the development of advertising programs of various kinds for area consumer oriented business firms doing less than $1,000,000 in annual sales volume, Mr. Boyd was an early pioneer of bank financed retail credit card plans which were the forerunners of Master Charge and Visa. Now, as then, he believes that the only way small consumer oriented business firms can make substantial headway against the giant chains is through carefully planned collective action in various aspects of public relations.

ATLAS SELLS DIVISION

For $13.5 Million. Atlas Corporation and Bundy Corporation have announced that they have reached an agreement in principle for Bundy to acquire the Titeflex Division of Atlas Corporation for approximately $13.5 million in cash.

The Titeflex Division, located in Springfield, Mass., is a leading producer of flexible metal and plastic hoses and hose assemblies for the aircraft and aerospace industries and for industrial markets. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1977, the division's sales were $14,357,000.

Atlas Corporation of 353 Nassau Street, Princeton, is a diversified natural resources, services and manufacturing company. Its other businesses include mining and processing of uranium, providing logistics support services for units of the government and private industry and manufacturing products for the shoe, construction, aircraft and automotive industries.

BUNN RD. SITE SOUGHT

For Communications Park. Princeton Communications Park Associates has filed a major subdivision in Princeton Township for the development of a new communications park on a 28-acre wooded site.

Created by Peterson's Guides and Wren Associates with architects Short and Ford, Princeton Communications Park is intended specifically for companies involved in the areas of communications, design and research-related activities. The new communications Park is expected to facilitate the interchange of ideas and services among companies that have similar interests and outlooks.

The site fronts Bunn Drive and Ewing Street. According to Jerry Ford of Short and Ford, buildings for the park are expected to range from 8,000 to 30,000 square feet and will be designed with two principal objectives. Harmonizing materials and forms will be used within the wooded setting, and individual solutions will be devised to satisfy the companies' functional needs and desire for identity.

Short and Ford will design the first two buildings for Peterson's Guides, an educational reference publisher, and Wren Associates, a multimedia design firm. Peter W. Hegener, president of Peterson's Guides, expects his new corporate headquarters to be ready for occupancy by January 1980. Karl Faller, president of Wren Associates, and Joe Hovanec, executive vice-president of Wren, announced that they plan to move into their new building in the fall of 1979.

Stewardson-Dougherty Real Estate Associates are the exclusive agents for Princeton Communications Park.

MEDICAL CENTER GAINS

From Management Program. Hospital Administrative Services (HAS) has awarded the Medical Center at Princeton a certificate of recognition on behalf of the American Hospital Association. This certificate recognizes the Medical Center at Princeton as voluntarily participating in a management information program designed to contain costs and monitor productivity.

John W. Kauffman, president, stated, "The HAS program provides the type of data we require to formulate management decisions, and we find the quantitative information provided by HAS extremely valuable. We not only receive information based on our internal operation but also are able to participate in comparisons with other institutions of like size." The HAS program was begun in 1959 and presently has over 3,000 participating institutions.

Unitarian Church, in Princeton for 25 Years, Plans Banquet Saturday and Service Sunday

"We of this church unite to provide a living medium of spiritual exchange for the service of each other, our community and mankind. We share in love and dignity a co-operative search for truth, reserving to all individuals the right to their own beliefs concerning the nature of God, Humanity, and the Universe.

These words form the Bond of Union which was drawn up by the founders of the Unitarian Church of Princeton 30 years ago. They are posted conspicuously in the church library and are read out from time to time in the course of Sunday services. Signing the Church Book in which they are inscribed constitutes becoming a full-fledged member of the church. As a description of the philosophy of the Unitarian Church, the Bond of Union recalls the many activities of the church as it celebrates its Silver Jubilee this weekend.

This is a Silver Jubilee because it is 25 years since the Unitarian Fellowship, which had been meeting for five years in various locations around town, was granted a charter from the American Unitarian Association to call itself a church and to have a minister. That was in May, 1953, and by way of celebration there will be a gata banquet Saturday night and a service Sunday at 10 with Paul Carnes, president of the Unitarian - Universalist Association - successor to the AUA - as speaker.

"Living Medlum." The major effort of the Unitarians in these 25 years has been the building of a church for a rapidly - growing membership. Four acres were acquired in 1954 "on the outskirts of town" at the corner of Cherry Hill Road and Route 206. The first service was held in the A-frame auditorium in September, 1958, with church school in a separate small building.

By 1965 the membership numbered 422, with 288 children in the church school, putting a strain on the seven classrooms and again requiring rental of additional space in the community. A long - range plan was launched and a major fund - raising campaign undertaken, so that by September, 1968, for the first time every one was under one roof, in a greatly - expanded structure which joined the two buildings.

Service to Community. During this time, the Unitarian Church has been an effective and important presence in the community. Among the organizations which members have sponsored and guided in the early stages and which became independent entities are the Youth Employment Service, the Princeton Study Center, the Cherry Hill Nursery School and Creative Theatre Unlimited.

The Unitarian Single Adults group was one of the first to provide a forum or alternative to the singles bar scene. In 1962, 125 church members signed the covenant for Equal Opportunity in Housing in Princeton.

a forerunner to PAHR. Except for the first year, when proceeds went to landscaping the new building, funds from the annual Auction, Etc. have gone to outreach - to needy organizations in the community and as loans to individuals for college tuition.

The Unitarian Church became deeply involved in the trauma of the Vietnam War. Members still remember a sermon preached by the assistant minister Howard Middleton in October, 1967, that exploded out of the pulpit on the immorality and illegality of the escalating conflict. Strong opinions existed on both sides, which sharpened the whole discussion of how a church meets its social responsibilities.

During the urban riots in the 1960's, the church rented a store - front facility in Trenton for the use of a Community Organizer employed by the New Jersey Area Council of Unitarian Churches. Several church members became intensely involved in many aspects of working with city youth. Other programs, still under way, are the Thresholds program for prisoners and an Energy Action Group seeking ways to meet the energy crisis.

"Reserving to All Individuals." Church members encompass a great variety of religious conviction, from agnosticism to very personal kinds of traditionalism. Many people first come to the Unitarian Church because their parents were unhappy with their own experience in a church or synagogue but want their children to have some kind of very broad religious exposure. The church is able to provide a base for people to carry out their traditional beliefs in a broader context and from time to time holds special celebrations of Indian festivals or Passover meals.

The church is also very proud of the aesthetic quality of life in its building. It was important to include a small theatre in the church renovation, to purchase a fine piano for the auditorium, to hang art shows with care and to bring experienced musicians together regularly for ensemble playing.

As part of the Silver Jubilee and in keeping with the emphasis on the individual, the church had a photographer take pictures of all present members for an enormous scrapbook on "Who We Are." And it has also compiled a Silver Jubilee cookbook of recipes which have been made famous at its memorable gatherings over the years. These include the Christmas Roast Pig and the hot curry that was served one year at a "Silent Dinner."

NEARING COMPLETION: This view of the University Chapel prior to its dedication on May 30, 1928, was taken from atop the old University Library. At left is the tower of the John C. Green School of Science, destroyed by fire later that year.

The Princeton University Chapel will observe the 50th anniversary of its dedication Sunday at 11.

This present edifice is the successor to several other buildings in which the Sunday worship and religious programs of the University have been held. Originally, and for almost a century, the chapel of the College of New Jersey was located in what is now the Faculty Room in Nassau Hall. In 1847 it was replaced by a chapel located on a plot now occupied by a part of old Pyne Library.

After the Civil War and with the greatly enlarged student population, a new chapel was built through the generosity of Henry G. Marquand and located on a lot near the site of the present Chapel. It was designed in Romanesque style, but generally it bore resemblance in its architectural motif and inner furnishings to most Presbyterian churches. This building was destroyed in the spectacular fire in the spring of 1920 which also levelled Dickinson Hall.

During the interim while a new chapel was being planned, services were held in Alexander Hall. The cornerstone of the new Chapel was laid in 1925 and the completed building was dedicated in 1928. John Grier Hibben was president of the University; the supervising architect was Ralph Adams

Cram who had designed also the Graduate College a decade earlier.

Venerable Furnishings. The exterior was built of Pennsylvania sandstone trimmed with Indiana limestone. No structural steel was used except in the framing of the heavy lead-covered roof above the vaults.

There are 45 memorial windows and 202 memorial pews in the nave. The pulpit came from the north of France and its carvings would seem to date it around the middle of the 16th century. The lectern dates from the 17th century and came from a church in Normandy where it had stood for some two hundred years.

The organ was built by the Skinner Organ Company. Dedicated on June 17, 1928, it was revised in 1954 by Carl Weinrich and G. Donald Harrison, president of the Aeolian-Skinner Organ Company.

The Golden Jubilee Service which will take place on Sunday will feature the Litany of Dedication used in 1928. The original dedicatory hymn, written by Henry Van Dyke, "Living Temples," will be sung to music composed by Professor Walter Nollner, the director of the Chapel Choir. The sermon will be given by Dr. Ernest Gordon who has been Dean of the Chapel since 1955.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

TIMELY SPRAY SAVES HOLLY FROM MINERS

by Sam deTuro

Are the leaves on your Holly tree covered with blotch-like mines? If so, the Holly Leaf Miner is responsible

Holly Leaf Miners overwinter in Holly leaves and emerge during May. The adults feed for about 10 days before females deposit their eggs in new leaves Feeding damage appears as small punctures on leaves. These feeding punctures may be so numerous that leaves become distorted.

An application of diazinon when the small flies are present on the leaves during early to mid-May will prevent feeding damage.

Egg laying occurs about the time new twig growth has three or four leaves. The mines become evident during late Summer.

To prevent the formation of mines in Holly leaves spray when three or four new leaves appear with Metasystox-R or an all-purpose type home garden spray labeled for Holly Leaf Miners control.

HEAVY APPLICATIONS OF FERTILIZER AT THIS TIME WILL HELP WINTER INJURED HOLLIES TO RECOVER.

LAWRENCE TWP. PRINCETON ADDRESS

These magnificent contemporaries are designed for the particular family and feature large gracious entertainment areas under dramatic cathedral ceilings, foyer galleries, libraries with wet bars, downstairs master suites with luxurious bath (stall shower and oversized tub) and lots of storage. Three different plans are available and variations on each plan are possible.

Designed by Short And Ford, a Princeton architectural firm, these homes will be constructed with the finest quality materials and craftsmanship. A unique feature of this project is its country club environment. Thirty four homes will be built on 50 rolling country acres. Access is from an entrance gate which can only be opened by a card or an intercom from residents' homes. Twenty acres will be owned by Homeowner Association. Tennis courts will be provided by the builder. Other facilities can be elected by the Homeowner Association. Additional features include zoned heating and air-conditioning systems, insulated glass throughout, oversized two car garage with automatic door openers, city water and city sewer. Commuting to New York is excellent via train at Princeton Jet. or by bus to the Port Authority. The bus stops at Province Hill on Route 206.

Town's Appearance Changed Half Century Ago When Cornerstone for High School Was Laid

"I REMEMBER...." Dick Wood has been teaching industrial arts at Princeton High School since 1936. He was graduated from PHS in '32 and married a girl from the class of '34. The photograph at the left was taken shortly after he joined the high school faculty. Mr. Wood is one of many PHS graduates who started their high school careers in that brand - new Gothic building whose cornerstone was laid fifty years ago this June.

".....this glorious building, second to none!" glowed the editorial in the Princeton High School "Tower" for October 30, 1929.

The glorious building was, of course, the older part of the Princeton High School of today. The cornerstone for that splendidly Gothic structure was laid 50 years ago — on June 11, 1928 — and the first classes were held in the new building in the fall of 1929.

Today, as the half - century celebration of the cornerstone laying approaches, the high school is preparing for major remodeling and renovation. In between, 22 years ago, there was the extension that expanded the school to accommodate the 1,550 students who went there in the mid - 1950s.

The school newspaper that described the building so breathlessly had a new name to fit the new school.

In the past, when grades seven through 12 were in the old Nassau Street School building near the Moore Street intersection (now the Creative Arts Center for Princeton University), the school paper was "The Blue and White." But a contest was held and "The Tower" won.

Like a Castle. "The school's tower is visible for quite a distance, standing out against the sky, aloof and solitary," the "Tower" reported, in a story based on a tour of the building. "Its handsome masonry might well be confused with that of some imposing castle of medieval time; yet it has about it a kindlier look than that of a grim old castle."

It was medieval and castle-like because Gothic had won out over Colonial after a town meeting, a spirited discussion, and a vote. "Modern" architecture was unheard of.

"The many tall, slim windows have a rather mysterious air about them," the writer continued, "but this is quickly dispelled when the investigator discovers the doors. Those doors are low and wide, friendly doors that seem to bear an invitation to pass between their portals."

It was the new auditorium that caused the writer to swoon with pleasure.

".....the morning sun shines against the velvet of the draperies, making their deep red color stand out softly. It glitters against the polished floor and the curtains on the stage. The dark chairs stand row upon row a sense of peace pervades this room, so full of dignified beauty, a restful quiet marred only by the faint voices of the students."

As the Years Go By. Those velvet curtains long ago dissolved into dust and the replacement curtains after them. Renovation of the old auditorium, replacement of the battle - scarred seats was a key element in the remodeling of 1978. But students at the school today, perhaps the grandchildren of pupils who studied at the school in those early years, strongly objected to any radical change in the Gothic paneling and design of the old auditorium.

Another wrote that, with the new auditorium, "we will not need to run to the grammar school through rain, snow and cold weather for our assembly programs."

Up to the library, a room so crowded today that students sit on the floor:

"The cozy window seats serve as excellent places for reading, and many windows present a view of the surrounding countryside ... away over the meadows to the foothills."

The "Tower" writer who liked the idea of an auditorium under the same roof as the classrooms had a certain feeling for staff quarters as well:

"Executive offices are in the center tower, separated from the main student building and this does away with the noise of the pupils between periods."

"Cheer up, future chemist!" the writer exhorted. No longer any need to complain that the old lab was incomplete indeed.

Coatrooms Vanish. What seemed to astound this writer most — articles are not signed — was a very modern device indeed:

"It will seem very strange

Triangle Club's Current Production Offers Revue That Proves 'Continuously Delightful'

ONE, TWO, THREE—UH—KICK? That snappy Triangle kick line takes awhile to get organized, as you can see here, but it all comes out in the end. It's "Chile Today, Guacamole" and this is the carne that goes with the chili.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to show your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers

Fresh air is a delightful commodity which, despite Mother Nature's best efforts, is not always available in a troubled world. For reasons ranging from the bitter winter and the late arrival of a cold spring to more lingering problems that beset mankind, a need has been existing here and elsewhere for a breezy display of good humor, of pleasant music and happy laughter to put matters in their proper perspective.

Triangle, in its 89th year, has achieved all of that in "Chile Today, Guacamole," which permeated McCarter last weekend with a lilting zephyr -- occasionally when a full two and a half hours is devoted to song, humor and dance, the end result can be continuously delightful.

A program note declares that "in keeping with tradition (and the true nature of revue), the running order is subject to change without notice." So appealing, so full of sheer bounce is the opening number, "Anything for a Laugh," that it dwarfs almost everything else that is presented until very near the end of Act II.

gossamer - thin but often blowing about in robust gales of merriment. A major contribution to the appealing evening was the audience itself -- undergraduate onlookers hugely enjoying the entertainment their peers were providing.

First Revue in 3 Years. "Chile Today" reverts to the format that has been immensely successful for Triangle in the current decade, particularly "American Zucchini" and its forerunner of the early '70s, "Cracked Ice." In due course, no doubt, the club will again present the more traditional musical which has been the hall - mark of its long history -- one with hero, heroine and plot -- but

Triangle Club Revue

Climaxing "Anything for a Laugh" is a gorgeously picturesque appearance of the Long Kick Line. Inevitably, it is a true show - stopper (including one strapping soul whose bra lights up like a neon sign), but inexplicably that is the Kick Line's one and only appearance.

The net effect is to leave some of the sequential numbers, good as they are, a bit dim by comparison to the opening minutes. Possibly "Anything for a Laugh," which keys into the forthcoming production, is too intertwined with the Kick Line to be split apart, but if there is to be but one number built around it, a slot later in the evening would seem logical to the thousands of Triangle aficionados.

Happy Rhythm. But regardless of order of presentation, "Chile" is invariably downright good fun. A long-time Triangle and Intime favorite, Nancy Bleemer, teams with Katherine Giblin and Diane Wynter in "Blubber Blues," a happily rhythmic number that has been matched in essence over the Triangle years but is nonetheless a high point of the early action.

"Exam" is an amusing sketch recording a lovers' quarrel in a classroom where some 20 students are busy writing against the clock, only to find themselves taking sides in the arguments being put forth by the principals. "Multiple Misconceptions" tells what happens when a soon-to-be bridegroom tells his best friend he is marrying the friend's mother.

There are numerous others well worth remembering, from the pleasing harmony and easy clowning of "The Simpletones" to the welcome resurrection of the Mingo Junction chorus which, if memory serves, made its initial bow in "Cracked Ice." The vocal pyrotechnics are at once musical and side-splitting, a feat of considerable achievement.

At the end of Act II, "Disco," provides the climax in a fine blend of music, flashing, gaudy lights, humor and choreography. It symbolizes the evening's success, and the skill with which the professionals, Director Milton Lyon, Choreographer Haila Strauss and Costumer Sonia Karvel, have contributed to it. Mr. Lyon, nearing the end of a quarter-century's association with Triangle, has the master's touch.

"Chile" Today, Guacamole" will return to McCarter for reunion weekend, Friday and Saturday, June 2 and 3, and will go on tour next December. See it if you can - there's oxygen in fresh air, and oxygen is the breath of life.

—Donald C. Stuart

TWO BY SHAFFER

At PDS. Two seniors at Princeton Day School - Steve Cragg and Jon Spiegel - are directing a pair of one-act plays by Peter Shaffer as their third term project.

The plays, "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye," will be given this Saturday and Sunday at the Herbert McAneny Theatre, Princeton Day School. Admission is one dollar.

Actors in the plays will be PDS students John Wallace, Kerry Faden, Tim Johnson, Muna Shehadi and the directors themselves. Mr. McAneny will serve as advisor but direction, lighting, sets, make-up and costumes are all being handled by the students themselves.

Players Turn to Woody Allen and Woody Allen Sees to It That Players Have a Genuine Hit

Princeton Community Players' production of Woody Allen's "Play it Again, Sam" is a genuine laugh - filled hit that is a delight from beginning to end.

Hands down credit for this success has to go to the outstanding performances of Lew Gantwerk in the lead role and Jack DiMonte as a fantasy Humphrey Bogart. It also helps, too, that this is a Woody Allen creation without the lapses of good taste which sometimes mar his work. It is, in short, the controlled effort of the master of the looney and bittersweet world of the writer himself.

The events of the play center around the amorous misadventures of Allan Felix (Gantwerk), a thinly disguised Woody Allen. His wife, snappily played by Barbara Feldman, has had it and leaves him.

His apartment neighbors and best friends, the Christies (Louise Arnold and Allen f. Rowe) try their best to buoy his spirits. They line him up with dates, but Allan is just too intense.

This problem sets the stage for the appearance of Bogey. Allan, we learn, is a critic for "Film Quarterly" and wishes he had Bogart's way with women. From here on fantasy mixes with whacko reality as a troupe of incredible true or imagined females parades through Allan's apartment. Bogart offers his advice to the hapless Allan, but alas, it is not all that easy, although it is quite funny.

These cameo roles are a theatrical delight, and each of the actresses plays her role to the hilt. They include Claudia Lament as an ultra - sexy Dream Sharon and later as a possible real answer to the hero's needs; Diane Markee as a plastic - type photographer's model; Marie sneer we grew so familiar with in all those Warner Brothers movies. Almost every time DiMonte appeared, he left with a round of applause.

Tickets may be hard to come by when the word gets out about this play (even opening night was SRO). The Players' Broadmead Playhouse seats only 90, so Rosenblad as one more incompatible companion; Areata Oebel as an over-sexed leather girl more full of talk than performance; Brenda Nolan as a vacuous double-jointed go-go dancer; and Deanna Baron as a sick M.O.M.A.'s girl.

Their flawless interpretations of these oddball roles is sadly not the case with the important part of Linda Christie (Ms. Arnold). Someone has decided that she should be extremely low-key. It just does not fit either with what she says or with what you instinctively feel she should be.

In contrast to this, Allen I. Rowe as Doug Christie is too much a whirlwind of motion from beginning to end. He is continually high and his wife is continually low. And they do not change these approaches even though it is obvious from the events of the play that they should.

There are other problems here and there: The walls of the set are too bright and tend to carry your eyes from the main action. There is an annoying hum which precedes any use of the record player. There are a couple of dark spots in the lighting down in the main acting area.

Some of the longer scenes have a ragged touch to them. But all of this is incredibly minor when weighed against the performance of Lew Gantwerk.

Mr. Gantwerk could have simply mimicked Woody Allen and been satisfactory. But he has done far more than that. True, there are all the Woody Allen mannerisms with which we are familiar; but what is different here is what seems to come from within.

There is an essential inner health and innocence that is salutary. You feel compassion, not pity, and that makes all the difference in the world.

Jack DiMonte as Bogart is impeccable. He has Bogie down perfectly from the lisp to that sardonic heavy-lidded you should call soon if you plan to attend. It will run for two more weekends, May 5, 6, 7, and 12, 13, 14. Call 921-6314.

Membership in McCarter Associates Provides Theatre-Goers With Benefits from Lower Ticket Prices to Bar Privileges

Subscribing to McCarter's series of plays, films, music, rock concerts or what have you doesn't automatically make you a member of McCarter Associates.

That's the reminder this week from McCarter Associates themselves, embarked on a membership drive to increase their present list of members from 1,800 to 3,600.

It costs $25 to become an Associate. For your dues, you get invitations to opening-night parties, 30 percent discount on your subscriptions, the privilege of buying alcoholic beverages during intermission in the Associates' downstairs lounge, theatre trips to New York, advance announcements of plays and concerts and tours of McCarter backstage to see what the scenery really looks like.

"A bar? During intermission? I'll join," was one prompt response. (If you buy your drink tickets ahead of time, you can even avoid waiting in line at the bar.)

100 Percent Increase Sought. The Associates want to double their membership, they said at a press conference Thursday, because foundations and corporations have said quite baldly that they aren't interested in providing financial support unless there is community support as well.

That was clearly the message from the Ford Foundation when the present "challenge" grant was made. Under this $85,000 grant, McCarter must balance its books and keep in the black every fiscal year. At the end of five years, the theatre may keep the $85,000 if the challenge of a balanced budget has been met. McCarter is now ending its second year of the five.

Balancing the books means finding $400,000 each year, beyond tickets sales and subscriptions. Princeton University, which owns the theatre and the land it stands on, contributes $110,000 a year and maintenance.

But the theatre is entirely a union one, with all that means in terms of pay scale for actors and tech. crew. Plays with small casts are a big help, and if they have only one, nice, bare set, that's even better.

A "Hungry" Theatre. Mrs. Stuart Duncan, president of the Associates, pointed out on Thursday that only 2.2 percent of all corporate giving goes to the arts, which keeps McCarter a little bit hungry. Incidentally, you may contribute more than $25 to become an Associate. Whatever you contribute, from $25 up, your name goes into the McCarter programs - if you wish, you may remain anonymous - for everybody to read before the house - lights dim.

You would also be most welcome as a volunteer. There's lots of filing and compiling, checking and re-checking to do.

The Associates compiled a list of New Jersey communities where members live and there are 133 towns. There are 16 communities in Pennsylvania, two in New York (Manhattan and Brooklyn), plus Riverside, Connecticut and — Tarzana, California.

About one-fourth of the members live in Princeton, another fourth in the New Brunswick area and around one fifth in Trenton. There is even one member in a town called Meyersville, N.J. which doesn't even have, so far as anyone can tell, a zip code.

Membership information may be obtained from the McCarter box - office at 921-8700, or by writing to McCarter Associates, Box 526, Princeton (that town DOES have a zip), 08540, and asking for a membership application.

DUPRE WORK PLANNED

For Multimedia Concert. "The Fourteen Stations of the Cross" will be presented in organ music, poetry and masterpieces of art Sunday at 8 in the Lawrenceville School Chapel. The time has been changed from 7:30.

The music for the "Stations" is by the French organist and improviser, Marcel Dupre, who improvised his impression of a set of fourteen poems, one for each station, by the French diplomat and writer, Paul Claudel. The poems were read by a Belgian actress during Lent, 1932 in Brussels, Belgium, and Dupre produced his musical reaction to the poem after each was read. Later he wrote down the music, which has Wagnerian-like motives associated with various themes throughout the Passion story.

Marilois Kierman, organist and music teacher at Lawrenceville, will play the organ. Prof. Frank Kierman of Rider College, will read his own translation of the poems that Dupre used as his inspiration, and the stations will be illuminated with slides of the work of famous artists who have been attracted to the Passion story.

Mrs. Kierman has studied at Juilliard and received her B.A. from Reed and her M.A. in organ from American University, where she studied with Philip Steinhaus.

CONCERT SUNDAY

By Columbus Boychoir. The Columbus Boychoir, under the direction of Donald Hanson, will make its last Princeton area performance of the year in a concert at All Saints' Church Sunday at 3.

The guest soloist will be Mark DuBois, a young tenor with the Canadian Opera and a former choirboy of Mr. Hanson's in Toronto. Mr. DuBois was honored in the national and provincial vocal competition, and has sung the roles of "Don Basilio" in the "Marriage of Figaro," "Count Almaviva" in the "Barber of Seville," "Ottavio" in "Don Giovanni," and "Gastone" in "La Traviata." He will perform works by several composers, including Schumann, Verdi, Gounod and Bizet, as well as Mozart duets with Brad Nichols, a Boychoir soloist.

The Boychoir itself will offer a program of traditional motets, contemporary works written especially for boys' choir, and lighter music of Haydn, Schubert, Brahms and Kodaly. The group was previously heard in small good-will concerts throughout the area and in its major Christmas performance at Alexander Hall. During the year, the boys have toured to North Carolina, Georgia, Ohio, Indiana, Toronto, and New England.

They have appeared three times on television, once on New Jersey public channels, once for the Westinghouse stations in a one-hour special program on the Boychoir, and once nationwide on ABC's "Good Morning America." Remaining to be taped is a special program of the Choir's singing of "I Never Saw Another Butterfly," which will be shown by WNBC-TV in New York as part of the station's commemoration of the Holocaust.

The Columbus Boychoir is the oldest touring boys' choir in this country, and its home base, The Boychoir School of Princeton on Lambert Drive is the only non-sectarian boys choir boarding school in North America. Founded in Ohio in 1937, the Boychoir moved to Princeton in 1950, and continues to offer an academic program in a musical context.

CONCERT PLANNED

At Seminary. Soprano Linda H. Mattingly, assisted by soprano Selma Ehrlich and mezzo-soprano Sandra R. West, will present a recital in Princeton Seminary's Miller Chapel Saturday at 4. Accompanying them will be Nora Martin, Pianist.

The program will include duets and solos from the works of Strauss, Schubert, Wolf, Bergeret, Debussy, Duparc, Faure, and Viardot. The event is open to the public without charge.

Mrs. Mattingly was a finalist in Boston and New York Regional Metropolitan Opera Contests. A first place winner in the first annual Boston Opera Contest, she made her operatic debut with The Opera Company of Boston. She has also sung with The New York City Opera and the Syracuse Symphony Orchestra.

SEASON TO END

For New Jersey Symphony. The final performance this season by the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra will take place this Wednesday at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre.

Maestro Ling Tung, director of the Philharmonia

Orchestra of Philadelphia will conduct, and Emanuel Ax, pianist, will be the featured soloist. The program will include Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 3, Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 1 in E minor and Hindemith's "Symphonic Metamorphosis."

SQUARE DANCE SET

By Folk Music Group. The Juggernaut String Band will present a square dance on Friday at 8:15 at the Community Park School, 372 Witherspoon Street. The square dance is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

The Juggernaut String Band is a Philadelphia-based old-time band and has appeared at festivals, concerts and dances throughout the eastern U.S. The group has two square dance callers and teachers, Peter Taney and Janet Bregman-Taney.

Mr. Taney has been performing, alone and with bands, for the past six years and teaches fiddle, banjo, and square dance. His wife teaches fiddle and square dance and plays banjo as well.

The third full-time member of the group, Carl Baron, plays banjo, banjo-guitar and guitar. Other part-time band members are also expected to appear with the group. In addition to the dancing, the group will also perform a number of old-time songs and tunes between dances.

Admission to the dance is $3 for general public, $2.50 for students and senior citizens, $2 for Folk Music Society members, and $1 for students below high school.

FINE BINDINGS SHOWN
In Firestone Library. The oldest books had no pages. Man's early efforts to record the word were baked clay tablets covered with symbols. Greater sophistication and many centuries of development produced the papyrus scroll, Roman parchments and the Chinese folded book. About 300AD the Romans began to assemble folded and printed sheets of vellum by stitching them together, creating the ancestor of the modern book.

The first bound books were made using stout cord and placed between two wooden boards. Like most of the earlier art forms they were religious in nature, and were usually created in monasteries. As the early printing technologies developed, bookbinding grew into a sophisticated art which reflected the tastes and stylistic forms of the period.

"Fine Bindings, Gothic to Modern", on display at the Rare Book Collection of Firestone Library traces the development of the hand bound book from its earliest forms to the present. The diverse collection takes us through the centuries, starting with highly elaborate bindings that are a blend of ornate jewelers' techniques and intricate ornamentation. The display travels through centuries and nations, including a variety of styles and techniques reflective of the societies that used the books.

Technology Supersedes Hand Work. The history of fine binding parallels that of many other art and craft forms. Originating in the church, and later created for those powerful and rich enough to own a book, the hand bound, elaborately worked tomes became increasingly sought after by the educated and the affluent. The new 19th century technologies all but destroyed the market for hand bound books and the new chemical and leather and paper processes literally ravaged those that were put together by the fine bookbinder. The late 19th and 20th century revival of the arts and crafts led to new efforts in creating hand bound books as well as the creation of fine reproductions of older works.

Although the study of fine bindings is an esoteric subject, the staging of this collection and the clearly written, comprehensive information that is presented opens the subject to even the casual viewer. The chronological presentation and Jamie Shalleck's descriptive material allow us to share in the aesthetic pleasures and technical merits the bindings present.

The collection is further enhanced by a display of tools and materials used in the binding process. A variety of unusual but simple mechanical devices accompanied by helpful descriptions, allow an understanding of the process as well as the result, creating a richer and more pleasurable viewing experience.

Although the exhibition of Japanese prints at the Graphics Collection of Firestone was reviewed here earlier, the presentation of the collection has been delayed. According to information received, the prints should be on display beginning the first week in May.

At the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art. In 1977 the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art was destroyed in the Benson Building fire. Like the mythical phoenix, the Gallery has returned to us. An enlarged facility on the second level of 162 Nassau Street is the setting for its first major display. The opening collection includes paintings, graphics, drawings and sculpture by nationally known artists, including many from the Princeton area.

The dominant work in this extensive collection is a heroically proportioned painting by Jack Levine depicting Josef Stalin receiving the sword of Stalingrad. The painting is accompanied by works of other major artists representing a variety of styles and significant periods of contemporary American painting. Included are prints, paintings and drawings by Milton Avery, Gregorio Prestopino, Liz Dauber, Rufino Tamayo, Conrad Marc - Relli, Phillip Evergood and others.

The large, well designed space in the new facility provides an attractive and comfortable setting for viewing art. There are several exhibition spaces within the gallery. The larger gallery area offers paintings and sculptures scaled to the demands of that space. A smaller gallery includes graphics and other works that require more intimate viewing.

At Gallery 100. A collection of representational woodcuts by Sabra Johnson Fields focuses on landscape and figurative works. The large scale of the prints is unusual for woodcut, as is the

CHILEAN TAPESTRIES

At Loft Gallery. A collection of hand-embroidered primitive tapestries by Chilean women will be displayed at the Loft Gallery, 306 Alexander Street beginning this Wednesday. The exhibit will run four weeks. Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 9 to 5.

The woolen tapestries exemplify the vitality of native Chilean craftsmanship and artistic ingenuity. The subjects vary greatly, from local street scenes to renderings of the Andes Mountains, from portraits of Chilean natives to a variety of designs.

The women artists reveal an innate understanding for color -- the woolen tapestries are vivid and rich in primary colors, but also achieve an aesthetic and engaging effect. Yet the artists have little formal education and basically no art training. All the creations are original, as the artists work from their own patterns mostly drawn in chalk.

Patricia Lange of Chile Arts, Inc. in Princeton, is the regional representative for the artists. She plans to add other handicrafts to her line: knitted and woven clothing such as hats, coats, dresses, scarves, gloves, all made from hand-spun wool and naturally dyed.

TWO TRIPS PLANNED

The trip to the Neuberger Museum in Purchase is planned for Friday, May 26, with bus departure at 8:30. A docent lecture is scheduled for the Purchase trip, and the group will have lunch at the museum for $3.

The cost for each trip, without lunch but including transportation, gratuities, admissions, lectures, snack-pack and tax-deductible contribution to the PAA, is $12 for members, $13 for non-members. ART SHOW SET

At West Windsor H.S. The third annual West Windsor Art Show and Sale, sponsored by the Art Parents League, will be held on Friday and Saturday, May 12-13, at West Windsor Plainsboro High School. Students enrolled in the high school's art program are the only exhibitors.

Friday the exhibit and sale hours will be from 6 to 10:30 p.m.; Saturday from noon to 10. Works in sculpture, acrylics, pastels, charcoal, pen and ink, watercolors, macrame, textiles, pottery, graphics, weaving and batik will be on display.

Students participating in the show agree to contribute one-fourth of their earnings to the Art Parents League Fund. These funds are used by the league for an art scholarship, field trips, special art programs for the students, and to pay for framing one piece of art given by each graduating senior to the school's permanent collection.

The high school stage band will again present a pop concert at 8 Saturday evening in the high school theater for the entertainment of visitors.

Head of the art department at West Windsor Plainsboro High School is Arthur B. Moore. Two other art teachers are Mrs. Patricia Baran and Mrs. Jennifer Moore.

SPORTS FANS
I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
Brought to You
by John Bernard

A horse without a name once ran in the Kentucky Derby! ... Owner Pat Malloy entered his horse in the 1882 Derby - but Malloy never got around to giving his horse a name, and if you look at the official Kentucky Derby records, you'll see a horse listed in the 1882 Derby as simply "Pat Malloy's horse" ... He finished 10th.

Of all the men who've ever played big league baseball, which one struck out the most times in one season? ... Answer is outfielder Bobby Bonds who struck out 189 times in the 1970 season to set the all-time record.

Here's an oddity ... Although almost every team in sports does better at home than on the road, the Cincinnati Reds once set an unusual record in reverse - and won the pennant by doing it ... The Reds in 1972 were just so-so at home, winning 42 and losing 40 - but on the road they won 53 and lost only 29 - a record that let them win the pennant, and a record unique in major sports ... No other pro team has ever done that much better on the road than at home.

I bet you didn't know ... that 51 percent of all Americans suffer a serious disability. If this happened to you would your loss of income policy protect you.

Cornell, Nation's Top-Ranked Lacrosse Team, Will Play Tigers Saturday in Palmer Stadium

The best lacrosse team in the nation - one that is markedly superior to those ranked just below it - will play against Princeton Saturday at 2 in Palmer Stadium. Cornell's NCAA champions have not lost in their last 38 games and are a prohibitive favorite to win their fourth straight national title when the eight-team tournament begins later this month.

It is too bad that the fine setting which the Stadium provides for lacrosse will not draw much of a crowd for the game. Not only does the sport go largely unappreciated here, but Princeton last week removed all likelihood that it will give the Ithacans much competition by losing back-to-back contests to Brown and Harvard. The defeats not only prevented the Tigers from a chance to earn the runner-up spot in the Ivy League but eliminated them from consideration in the NCAA playoffs - a pre-season goal they had firmly in mind.

Ability to run over Dartmouth, 21-5, on the first of three trips to New England during an eight-day span may have made Princeton over-confident. Four days later, the Orange and Black headed for Providence to meet Brown, winless in Ivy action. When the visitors jumped out to a 5-1 lead, the script called for the Bruins to fold.

Instead, it was the Tigers who gradually lost control. Their margin faded to 5-3 at the half, and when they were out-scored in the third period, 4-0, they could not rally to change the momentum.

Second Half Again Costly. At Cambridge, Harvard's no. 1 team in New England held a slim halftime 7-6 lead but followed the example of virtually all of Princeton's opponents this spring in outplaying the Tigers during the final two periods. Princeton yielded seven more goals, managed but four itself and saw its Ivy record drop to 2-2. Overall, the Tigers are 3-6, and are unlikely to be better than 3-9 when the disappointing season is over. They have a rare night game on their schedule this Wednesday against Rutgers at New Brunswick and after Cornell, will end their season the following Saturday here against Pennsylvania.

Both Princeton's crews encountered more than they could handle last weekend. At Cambridge, Harvard led the heavies across the line on the Charles River by five seconds (over a length). Here on Carnegie, Penn's 150-lb. shell won its 34th straight victory when it gave Princeton its first defeat of the season by half a length.

The heavyweight crew will row on Lake Cayuga against Cornell Saturday for the Carnegie Cup. Ironically, Yale, which will not be present because its exams have started, would be the favorite because of its upset victory Saturday over Penn, previously rated tops in the East. The 'fifties will row for the Coldwaite Cup on the Charles River against Harvard and Yale.

Tennis Matches Here. Three matches in two days face the well-manned tennis team, which triumphed over Columbia at New York Saturday, 7-2, to remain unbeaten in Eastern League play. Army and Cornell will be on the University Courts Friday and Saturday afternoons, with Penn State, a non-league opponent, here Saturday morning. The league championship will be decided Tuesday at

In baseball, Princeton's Eastern League season will end this weekend when Army comes to Clarke Field for a Friday game at 3 and Cornell plays a doubleheader here Saturday at 1. The busy schedule, which has had only one rainout since 10 games in March were cancelled because of poor playing conditions, will continue Monday at 3 with Fairleigh Dickinson as the opponent.

The Tigers dropped four of their five games last week when their one occasional strong point, hitting, deserted them in every game save Dartmouth. In order, they lost to Wagner, 3-0; Temple, 4-2; and Harvard, 11-1 and 2-1. Having beaten Dartmouth Friday at Hanover, 12-9, in 10 innings, even a split with Harvard the following day at Cambridge would have left them a long shot at the league title, because there is no dominant team this spring.

SPORTS In Princeton

Nine-Inning Shutout Lost. The week began with a 10-inning loss to Wagner, one that could have been averted had the Tigers been able to push across just one run when they loaded the bases in the sixth with none out. That chance faded, however, on a pop-up, a blown squeeze play and an outfield fly, and in the tenth, a triple that produced three unearned runs did them in. Mark Cascia's nine-inning shutout was of no avail.

Five errors by Temple (28-7-1), one of the top teams in this region, kept Princeton in a low-scoring game Wednesday, the Tigers eventually losing because their relief pitching couldn't match that of the Owls in the closing innings. Matt Gorman was the starter and loser.

Princeton's first three pitchers at Hanover, beset with four errors that handed Dartmouth three unearned runs, could not curb the Green attack, which produced nine runs in seven innings. But freshman Mark Lockenmeyer finally put out the fire, throwing three shutout innings and winning his first game on the strength of a three-run outburst in the top of the 10th. Ed Kish's fourth hit of the day, a double, provided the tie-breaker and Vic Kurylak then homered for the Tigers' 11th and 12th runs.

Paul Zoubek was the beneficiary of a three-run first but could not hold on, and Jon Baker and Mark Cascia followed him before Lockenmeyer became the winner. The victors collected 18 hits, their two-run rally in the eighth sending the game into extra innings.

After hammering Dartmouth pitching to all points, the Tigers managed but eight hits in 14 innings against Harvard. Hoon Mo Chung was the loser in the first game. Andy Kannenberg would have won the second had he not given up a two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh after protecting a 1-0 lead for six rounds.

The twin defeats dropped Princeton's league record to 5-7 with three games left. Next spring, it will be 26 years since the Eastern League title was last won by the Tigers.

One of the more welcome victories this season was recorded here Monday when the Tigers pasted Rutgers, 10-2, in return for a 17-5 drubbing they had absorbed last month in New Brunswick. The pitcher of record each time was co-captain Matt Gorman, who remarked that having evened the score, he could now graduate in peace.

A 360-foot home run over the left field fence by sophomore catcher Ted Frangos played a part in giving the Orange and Black a 4-2 lead when the bottom of the eighth arrived. By that time, freshman Chris Cascia had taken over for Gorman and was presented with the relief pitcher's dream: six insurance runs.

Five walks by an assortment of Rutgers hurlers were a large factor in the delayed outburst, in which the big blow was a triple to right center by freshman Mark Lockenmeyer. He and Frangos and first baseman Vic Kurylak all had two hits apiece of the 11 Princeton made while Gorman was holding the losers to five and striking out eight.

Rider was on the schedule Tuesday at Clarke Field. The Tigers were hoping to boost their 10-11 record to the break - even point with a victory over their opponents from Lawrenceville.

HOCKEY HONORS LISTED

Kelley Named Captain. Junior defenseman Dave Kelley of Waterville, Maine, has been elected captain of the Princeton University hockey team. A graduate of the Belmont Hill School in Belmont, Mass. Kelley is the son of Jack Kelley, Director of Hockey Operations for the New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association.

Kelley has been a steady performer on the blue line for the Tigers the past three years. He had played in 71 consecutive games before a shoulder separation suffered in the St. Lawrence contest this season necessitated an operation that forced him to sit out the Tigers' final three games.

A "defensive" defenseman, Kelley was lauded by Coach Jim Higgins for his outstanding play, including his efforts to block shots by going down on the ice. Higgins, who led Princeton to a 9-14-2 record, its best in a decade, including eight one goal losses, said "Dave's selection as captain came as a surprise to no one, he was nearly a unanimous choice. He just played outstanding defense for us this year."

Four Others Honored. For the second year in a row, goalie Fred Cherne and wing Jon Van Sieten have been named co-winners of the team's most valuable player award, the William B. Blackwell Memorial Trophy. It is the first time since Alex Mills was honored in 1952 that a player has received the award twice.

Higgins called Van Sieten "the finest player I have ever coached." The 5-10, 170 lb. graduate of the Hotchkiss School played both left and right wing this season and led the Tigers in scoring with 13 goals and 20 assists for 33 points, the most by a Princeton skater in a decade.

Cherne, a second team All-Ivy League selection, recorded a fine 3.88 goals-against average, the sixth best in the ECAC and lowest by a Tiger netminder in ten years. His 8-0 shutout of Colgate was the first by a Princeton goalie in six years.

Bill Tresham, a center from Welland, Ont., has been named the 1978 winner of the Richard F. Vaughn Cup, annually awarded to the "player who best exemplifies perseverance and dedication to Princeton hockey." Dave Tweedy, a native of Lexington, Mass. was named the recipient of the freshman award, the Hobey Baker Trophy.

Tresham, a tri-captain this past season and captain of the team as a junior, had his finest season, scoring seven goals, 12 assists, for 19 points.

Higgins said that Tweedy was honored for his improvement in his all-around game. A regular at right wing who played in every game, he tallied 17 points.

TABLES ARE TURNED

76 Registration Friday

Princeton Post 76, the Princeton area's entry in the American Legion baseball league, will hold registration on Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Post No. 76 on Washington Road.

All players born on or after August 1, 1959, who attend Princeton or West Windsor-Plainsboro high schools, and those from the two communities who attend private schools are eligible. Any player attending Montgomery who has a 921 or 924 telephone number is also eligible.

nington Prep's fine hurler Fred Falchi.

Falchi limited the Panthers to a lone double by Vince Pocino in the sixth, leading his team to a 2-0 triumph. The victory will probably give Pennington the top-seeded position in the post-season tournament for Division B schools.

Dave Barondess, who had fired a one-hitter his last time out, gave up only five hits himself, including one double. Pennington, which scored a run in the first and another in the sixth, raised its record to 10-1, while PDS fell to 7-4.

MIXED RESULTS

For Nassau Soccer Teams. Several high-scoring games marked Nassau Soccer Association league play on Saturday morning, while the traveling teams had mixed success.

In the intermediate league, Team 3 defeated Team 6, 8-6, as Jason Mraz scored six goals for the winners and Jonah Cohen four for the losers. Tommy Foltyn's three goals led Team 5 to a 4-2 victory over Team 2.

In the youth league the Diplomats topped the Rowdies, 6-2. Steven Daughney led the winners with three goals, Peter Guthrie contributed two, and Dan Froehlich added one. Jon De Rochi and James Womack each scored one for the losers.

Billy Coker of the Hurricanes and Damon Weber of the Sockers accounted for their teams' scores in a 1-1 tie. The Timbers and the Cosmos also tied, 3-3. James Perle, Carey Park, Jon Soderberg, Doug Davis, Billy Scott, and Tommy Rossmassler scored goals.

In Central Jersey play, Nassau '66, coming off its 6-0 victory over Princeton '66 last week, continued its winning ways against West End '67, with a 2-1 victory. Freddie Haitch and Todd Heebink scored for Nassau. In a game played Saturday afternoon in Hamilton, Nassau '65 lost to the Hamilton '65 Spartans 6-1 as Colin Mahoney scored the lone Nassau goal on a penalty shot in the second half.

WW WIN DOES IT

PHS Nice in State Tournament. When Al Kaodell blew a strike past West Windsor's Tom Murphy in the last inning to preserve a nail-biting 6-5 win for the Princeton High School baseball team here Monday, it was, for the Little Tigers, a pitch heard round the world.

That single strike allowed them to preserve their unbeaten streak at home, which now stands at five. Far more important, however, the win guaranteed that PHS, no matter what happens in Thursday's game at Hopewell Valley, has qualified to participate in the NJSIAA state playoffs for the first time since ... it's been so long it requires a trip to the record books.

"We're in no matter what. It's a good feeling" allowed a happy PHS coach, Jim O'Neill. "It was a big one, but we made it look hard at the end. Kandell kept fighting back. He didn't have that pinpoint control but give him the credit."

Kandell had his back to the wall in the seventh when a pinch-hit single and two walks loaded the bases with one down. Greg Nelson then lined to Keith Phox in right, permitting the runner to tag and score West Windsor's fifth run to bring the Pirates within one.

PHS Now 6-4. Ron Dilatush, who had doubled and homered in previous appearances, was intentionally walked before Kandell made Murphy his seventh strikeout victim. He gave up seven hits in posting his third win of the season. Princeton's record climbed to 4-4, while West Windsor went down to its eighth defeat in nine games.

PHS picked up a run on the first on a hit batsman, Dave Miller's double and infield out, three more in the third on Jon Miller's single, a walk, Dave Miller's second hit and a two-run single by Kandell.

It added the deciding runs in the fifth. Catcher Jamie Robertson tripled home Dave Miller who had walked and then Dave Reed laid down a perfectly placed bunt single to score Robertson. In the second, Phox turned in the defensive gem of the game when he made a diving catch of a line drive and doubled a runner off first.

The Pirates' best inning was the fourth. Ray Malacrea doubled, Mark Mucellio singled and Dilatush doubled for two runs. Dilatush hit a homer, a towering blast to straightaway center, in the sixth for WW's fourth run, but Kandell got out of the inning by fanning John Cummings on a 3-2 pitch and making a leaping catch of Greg Sailer's comebacker.

MOST IMPROVED PLAYER: PHS second baseman Dave Reed had been labeled by his coach as the most improved player over last year. He has helped lead PHS into the state tournament competition.

Clutch Hitter. Dave Miller has hit safely in Princeton's last seven games and in nine of 10. He is batting well over .300.

"He's a clutch hitter with men on base," said O'Neill. "He's not only a good player but he's a cheerleader on the sidelines," O'Neill continued. "He gets us up; he gives us all a boost."

O'Neill also singled out the play of junior second basemen Dave Reed as "the most improved player over last year and possibly one of the most improved since I've been coaching. His defense has been outstanding and he has a great on-base average."

O'Neill then touched on what has been one of the contributing factors to Princeton's long-sought success this spring. "We're a close knit group. We're not an outstanding ballclub -- in fact, some kids are playing over their heads -- but we're a decent club and it would be foolish for others to take us lightly."

"The kids feel an obligation to each other to play as well as they can all of the time. We're giving it our all. We're playing as well as we can and that's what it is all about."

Bow to St. Anthony's. Earlier, PHS suffered one of its most lopsided losses when St. Anthony collected 14 hits en route to a 12-2 win. Tom Beckett batted 3-for-3 and drove in four SA runs.

Among Princeton's five hits off pitcher Paul Anama were triples by Kandell and Phox and a double by Jamie Robertson. Phox (2-2) was charged with the loss.

Still earlier in the week, it was Princeton's turn to fashion the big win, as it routed Marie Katzenbach School for the Deaf, 11-2. Every PHS player with the exception of relief pitcher Matt Kahny scored at least once.

Kahny came on in the third relief of John Rosenthal, who was making his first start, and pitched one-hit ball the rest of the way. He struck out five. Phox, Robertson and Dave Miller each rapped two hits for PHS -- Phox and Robertson slugging triples -- and Robertson and Miller each had two RBIs.

PHS IS DOUBLE WINNER

In Lawrenceville Relays. In the eighth annual Lawrenceville School Relays held last week, Princeton High School won two of the 13 events. No team scores were kept.

Rob Wyland, Oscar Brown, Andy Logan and Mike Fuschini combined to win the mile relay in 3:31.7 to edge Delran which finished second with a 3:32.2 clocking. In the sprint medley, Brad Ogilvie, Wyland, Fuschini and Lance Phox posted a winning time of 3:42.4. Trenton, which kept its best sprinters at home to prepare for the Penn Relays, finished second in 3:45.4.

Trenton and Hamilton each captured four events, while Ewing tied Princeton High with two each. The only meet record came in the distance medley which was won by Hunterdon Central.

In its third dual meet of the season, the Little Tigers (1-2) lost, 76-55, to Hamilton.

With the exception of the long jump which Barry Turner won with a leap of 21½, Princeton's four other triumphs came in the racing events. PHS won the 880, mile, two mile and mile relay.

In the latter, Wyland, John Perkins, Ogilvie and Fuschini were clocked in 3:46. John Kellogg won the mile in 4:48 and the two-mile in 10:25. Teammate Bill Ogilvie was second in the mile, one second behind.

Brad Ogilvie and Perkins finished one-two in the 880 with times of 2:06, and 2:07.5. Hamilton's Walt King doubled in the sprints, edging out Fuschini in both events. In the 220, King's winning margin was .3 of a second.

Also capturing seconds for PHS were Andy Logan in the 120 hurdles, Wyland in the 440, Paul Hoad in the shot put, and Bob Ayling (11-6) in the pole vault. Hamilton swept the high jump.

PDS NOW 7-1

In Lacrosse. A pair of victories last week, 10-5 over Montville and 6-5 over Delbarton, has given the Princeton Day lacrosse team a 7-1 to date, but the big games lie ahead.

After Englewood away on Wednesday, the Panthers will play Peddie at home on Friday, and Princeton High away Monday. Both these teams will test the Blue and White's ability to the fullest. Three of the last four games after that will also be against tough opponents: Lawrenceville, Johnson Regional (Clark) and Hunterdon Central.

The Montville contest, essentially a replay of last year's Division B final, saw PDS ahead the whole game. Mike Shannon and Tom von Oehsen led the scoring with three goals apiece, Rob Olsson had two, and John Sweeney and Tim Murdoch, one each.

Delbarton proved a much stronger foe on Friday, as the game would down to the final 30 seconds before Kent Wilkinson was able to produce the winning score. The visitors had managed to tie the score at 5-5 with only a minute left.

Olsson opened the scoring with his 100th goal of his varsity career at PDS. Sweeney had two, and von Oehsen and Gates, one apiece.

PHS VS. PDS MONDAY

In Lacrosse. Defeated Saturday, 13-11, by Columbia, the Princeton High School lacrosse team turns its attention to three important league games, and coach Bill Cirullo has set his sights on winning all three.

The first will be in Flemington Saturday at 4 against Hunterdon Central. Then comes rival Princeton Day School, which will be played Monday at 3:45 at the PHS football field. On Wednesday, two days later, PHS will entertain Summit.

"We want to win all three," said Cirullo. "If we do, we should get a position in the coaches' tournament which is one of our goals this year. But to do it we have to pull our own weight and turn on the steam."

Cirullo and his Little Tigers are pointing particularly to Princeton Day School. The Panthers have had the Little Tigers' number the past few years — much to the chagrin of PHS — and Cirullo would like to end that string.

Against undefeated Columbia (8-0) Cirullo had predicted a tough game and he got it. The score was tied at 5 at the half and when PHS pumped in three quick goals near the end of the third period, it was tied again at 9.

"When we tied it at 9 the momentum was our way; we thought everything was going for us," Cirullo said. "But we made some errors they took advantage of, and that was it. Columbia is a good ball club. They just outlasted us."

Entering the game, Columbia was ranked second in the state and PHS was tied with Boonton in fifth place. A year ago, Cirullo pointed out, when Columbia was also undefeated and ranked second and PHS fifth, the Little Tigers scored a stunning 8-7 victory, getting the winning goal in the last 25 seconds.

5 Goals for Morris. Johnny Morris led the PHS attack this year, scoring five goals and one assist. He leads the team with 19 goals and four assists. The second leading scorer, Bobby Campbell, who has 11 goals and nine assists, scored once against Columbia and added two assists. Pierre Muri had two goals and an assist.

With the loss, Princeton's record is now 4-2. The game was played in Maplewood on a field described by Cirullo as "a mess."

LATE RALLY WINS

For PHS in Lacrosse. It wasn't a Rembrandt; in fact Princeton High coach Bill Cirullo said it was the worst his team has played all year.

But the Little Tigers still managed to pick themselves off the floor in the final period against visiting Livingston here Monday to earn a ragged 9-7 win. In the final 10 minutes, Doug Firstenberg scored twice and Johnny Morris, Bobby Campbell and Chris Cahill once, while the PHS defense was limiting the Lancers to one goal.

Firstenberg ended with three goals and an assist, Campbell and Cahill each had two and Pierre Muri added a single tally in the third period.

Campbell and Firstenberg each scored in the first period, but Tom Fordyce of Livingston matched those two and 25 seconds into the second period, Lou Bucca put the visitors ahead. It was 4-2 at the half and PHS looked anything like a team ranked in the top five in the state.

Disdaining strategy, Cirullo blistered his team at the half. "I'm not a holler-type coach; I don't believe in that stuff, but I was grasping at straws at that point, down as we were," said Cirullo. "There was no hustle, we looked terrible."

In the second half, Cirullo reported PHS started to run a few isolations "to get our horses to do the job. Fortunately, they did it." PHS was able to score twice on plays Cirullo called, one with an extra man, "which was a God-send," he said.

Princeton's record climbed to 5-2 while Livingston's dipped to 5-7.

'SAME NAGGING THINGS' Hun Nine Drops 3 More. It was not a good week for the Hun School baseball team, which lost to Newark Academy, Admiral Farragut and Academy of New Church and saw its record dip to 2-8-1.

"It's the same nagging things," said Hun Coach Bill McQuade. Those "things" are walks, errors and failure to get the timely hit with men on base. And giving up the big inning to its opponents.

Hun will have three more chances to get on track this week. It will be at Pennington School this Wednesday, play host to Peddie Saturday in a 1:30 contest and entertain Rutgers Prep next Wednesday.

Of the three setbacks last week, Hun's best performance came Saturday in a 5-3 loss to Newark Academy. Hun outhit the victors 10-9, but "took itself out of the ball game," said McQuade, in the fifth when it committed a pair of errors and let three unearned runs cross the plate. Hun left 12 stranded on base.

Hun hurler Fred Wollmar struck out 11, but was saddled with his fourth loss. He has Hun's two victories.

Sophomore catcher Angelo Barbero batted 3-for-3 to raise his average to .460. Rick Arenas, Hun's second leading hitter at .360, had two hits and drove in a run. "We stung the ball all day long, they just didn't drop for us," said McQuade.

In a 5-2 loss to Farragut, Hun gave up five runs in the first on three hits, two walks and two errors. On one miscue, Dave Iorio and

Early PHS Alumni Well-Known Here Today

What kinds of kids went to Princeton High in the late 1920s and what did they do?

Well, there was Joseph Catelli, who became a vice-president of Princeton Bank and Trust; Ed Rey, who covers news for WHWH; Joe Shinn, retired Township building inspector; Birchall Kimble, of the funeral home; John Redding, now retired from the plumbing business; Filomena Panicaro McVaugh, of the present high-school cafeteria; Nelson Thompson of Nassau Oil; carpenter Victor Fasanella.

Dick Wood, who teaches industrial arts, walked out the high school door in 1932, went around the block — so to speak — and came back in 1936 with a degree from Trenton State and a job as industrial arts teacher, a post he still holds.

He was tackle on the PHS football team and recalls that you played both offense and defense and that there were so few players that you played "all the time." Later, of course, he became PHS coach. His wife, Mary Young Wood, was graduated in '34.

Seniors held the first party in the "new" school and "girls were beautifully gowned in many-colored evening dresses of the latest styles ... There was an exhibition of clogging by Frank Bird and several 'Paul Jones' dances," wrote a reporter in The Tower.

In 1929 the ninth grade had just finished studying "Treasure Island." The French Club held a fancy-dress New Year's party ... "Good Manners Week" was observed with considerable solemnity.

Mrs. Christian Gauss, wife of Princeton University's dean, spoke in December, 1929, on "The Modern Girl." She advised girls to earn their own livings before marriage. "Every girl should have the confidence behind her that she can support herself. It gives poise, reliance and more attractive conversation because of doing and thinking about important things," Mrs. Gauss said, adding that of course girls "want pretty clothes, amusements, popularity and marriage."

Two chemistry students were angling for a ride in the big ZR4 zeppelin at Lakehurst. James Stewart, their teacher, said, "If common newspaper reporters and photographers can obtain permission, surely an educated group of refined high-school students can do the same."

The big event of the four years was the seniors' trip to Washington, D.C. It would be the first trip to the capital for many. Girls dressed up like their mothers, in proper hose and hats and Dick Wood has the clue to how important that trip really was.

"I got a new suit."

and uncomprehensible to the majority — may you live in good health through this severe shock! There are no coatrooms in the school. In the halls are steel lockers, one of these will be assigned to each student."

A brave new world.

"Locker rooms (in the gyms) are a 100 percent improvement over the present ones. Rooms are much larger than those we are now using ... In boys' and girls' dressing rooms are marble shower partitions. These showers will be kept in working order."

Almost no area of the present school has been so criticized as gymnasium locker rooms. They were the dungeon horror rooms rooms showed to visitors last year when the school system was campaigning for passage of the remodeling bond issue.

Architects Ernest Sibley and Lawrence Lick were praised by the "Tower" editorial writer for fulfilling "a high responsibility."

"The guest strolls slowly down the hall. On either side, there ranges a row of well-fitted, modern classrooms with comfortable desks and wide-spread blackboards. Yes, it is a fine building to be proud of."

Arenas lost a fly ball in the sun.

At the last instant they collided. Arenas was knocked out and Ioric required seven sutures at the hospital for a laceration he received when his glasses shattered. After the first, Hun pitcher Bob Innocenzi pitched two — and all the rest of the way.

McQuade described Hun's 12-2 loss earlier in the week to Academy of New Church as his handicap, they defeated 32 other twosomes by recording a better-ball-of partners 68 each day.

Jim Litvack and Ben Herrman had been posted for a similar 18-hole score Sunday afternoon. Next day, however, Herrman asked Jim Hultgren, the club pro, to disqualify his team because he had realized that he had inadvertently reported an incorrect total for the 14th hole.

Four twosomes tied at 139 for second place. They were Ray Clark and Bill Quackenbush, Jim Schwartz and Bob Cronin, Mike Curtin and John Brophy, and Glenn Miller and Bill Wilson.

In the season's first tournament at Springdale, the annual Scramblers was won by Laddie Sanford, Nelson Storch, Cobble Sturhahn and John Loughlin. With a net 68, they were the only entry to break par.

tournaments are scheduled for this weekend. Saturday at 9, Springdale will play one of its twice-yearly matches with Bedens Brook. The following day at 9:30, a mixed tournament among Springdale members will be held.

PDS PITCHERS HOT

Two One-Hitters Thrown. April was a cool month this year, but Princeton Day pitchers Dave Barondess and Mike Walters have been sizzling on the mound.

A couple of weeks ago, Walters threw a no-hitter and Barondess followed with a three-hit shutout. Last week, both pitched one-hitters as the Panthers scored victories over Gill-St. Bernards and Pingry to raise their record to 7-3.

Barondess struck out eight and walked four in the 2-1 triumph over Gill last Wednesday. The visitors scored first in the third inning, using their own hit to drive in the run.

PDS was connecting solidly with the ball, but not much was falling in safely, until the bottom of the fourth when Frank Piccolella hit one that nobody was going to catch. His towering 380-foot smash cleared the pagoda in right center, tying the contest at 1-1.

It stayed that way until the bottom of the sixth when Lou Guarino led off with a single. Walters received a base on balls, and both moved up on a double steal. Guarino then scampered home with the deciding run when Tony Dell hit a hard smash at the second basemen, who could only make the play at first.

Barondess got into a bit of a jam in the seventh, walking two men. With one out, coach Tom DeVito brought in Walters to pitch to a left-handed batter. He managed to pick the man off second after an attempted bunt failed, and fanned the batter to end the game.

Two days later, Walters was on the mound against Pingry and he came close to pitching his second no-hitter. However, a fifth-inning double by his mound opponent spoiled the bid.

Led by Jay Nusblatt, who hit a single, double and triple, PDS got Walters two runs in the first, two more in the fourth and a final pair in the sixth. The Blue and White collected eight hits in all, four more than it got against Gill.

A make-up of the Delbarton game is set for Wednesday against Delbarton away; Wardlaw will play on the PDS field Friday.
